

r/Reddit •

 Emily Wagner_Jiyeon Yang  2026

| Does this matter?

 A project that investigates how fear and speculation embedded in everyday online discourse affect present awareness

Ask Reddit...

r/AskReddit is the place to ask and answer thought-provoking questions.

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/AskReddit •

 u/Acceptable-Yam2542  91

What is the most memorable movie scene you have ever watched?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qbovq7/what_is_the_most_memorable_movie_scene_you_have/

r/AskReddit •

u/Sharkkkk2

801

What is a secret
'cheat code'
you've found in real life?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdg1d/what_is_a_secret_cheat_code_youve_found_in_real/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Puzzleheaded-0119  1238

What is a subtle sign that someone is "high-functioning" but silently drowning in life?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q7jlm/what_is_a_subtle_sign_thats_someone_is/

r/AskReddit •

 u/GlitchOperative  10,159

What's a "small" social rule you refuse to follow, even if everyone expects it?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q7he3u/whats_a_small_social_rule_you_refuse_to_follow/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Odd_Opportunity_2590  444

What is a piece of old technology that actually worked better than its modern replacement?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdgl3q/what_is_a_piece_of_old_technology_that_actually/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Bitter-Blueberry2368  102

What do you call that state where you're not depressed, not lazy, but completely shut down inside?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdkyg4/what_do_you_call_that_state_where_youre_not/

r/AskReddit •

u/Bitter-Blueberry2368

9894

Very physically attractive people, how does life
treat you?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q7dfd/very_physically_attractive_people_how_does_life/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Expert-Bear1247  2

What is a skill that seems impressive but is actually useless?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdm2e2/what_is_a_skill_that_seems_impressive_but_is/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Diligent-Log6805  9395

What's rich people shit that poor people haven't heard of?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q8fe36/whats_rich_people_shit_that_poor_people_havent/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Haunted_Neko  1045

People who have served a long time in prison, what shocked you when you got out?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdaxz4/people_who_have_served_a_long_time_in_prison_what/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Level-Hotel9756  94

What's the biggest lie we were told growing up?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdif8p/whats_the_biggest_lie_we_were_told_growing_up/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Royal_Age_8510  110

What instantly makes someone attractive?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdgbg/what_instantly_makes_someone_attractive/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Psychological_Sky_58  8175

What's a totally harmless thing that triggers an oddly strong reaction in people?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qau4uq/whats_a_totally_harmless_thing_that_triggers_an/

r/AskReddit •

u/[Deleted Account]

7725

What's the most unhinged, batshit crazy prediction you have for 2026 that you're lowkey convinced is going to happen?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qb54df/whats_the_most_unhinged_batshit_crazy_prediction/

r/AskReddit •

u/burat667

6560

What's
something you thought
'everyone' did...
until you found out they don't?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q7waek/whats_something_you_thought_everyone_did_until/

r/AskReddit •

 u/goldie304  4305

What's the worst thing you accidentally texted to the wrong person?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q8qff2/whats_the_worst_thing_you_accidentally_texted_to/

r/AskReddit •

 u/SoftBunnyTea  54

What’s a job that looks easy until you actually do it?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdetbg/whats_a_job_that_looks_easy_until_you_actually_do/

r/AskReddit •

u/FitProblem6248

1

How do you know if someone isn't from where you live?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdmbyl/how_do_you_know_if_someone_isnt_from_where_you/

r/AskReddit •

 u/EscapeHonest8570  38

What is the biggest thing you can do now to change your life
for the better?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdgryp/what_is_the_biggest_thing_you_can_do_now_to/

r/AskReddit •

u/Potential_Law5289

4049

What's the Most Dangerous Thing That You Have Ever Done?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q96nwz/whats_the_most_dangerous_thing_that_you_have_ever/

r/AskReddit •

u/Secret-Structure1918

51

What's a simple pleasure that never gets old?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdlj1y/whats_a_simple_pleasure_that_never_gets_old/

r/AskReddit •

u/alexmartin19897

3627

what is something you are confident you will never do in your life?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q72iad/what_is_something_you_are_confident_you_will/

r/AskReddit •

 u/Resident_Word_1474  1

What is your favorite food to pair with when drinking?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdm9yg/what_is_your_favorite_food_to_pair_with_when/

r/AskReddit •

 u/ComprehensiveMap1360  40

Whats a common saying that you just don't agree with?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdfam1/whats_a_common_saying_that_you_just_dont_agree/

r/AskReddit •

 u/[Deleted Account]  1

What holiday that you went on gives you happy thoughts?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1qdm9rv/what_holiday_that_you_went_on_gives_you_happy/

r/AskReddit •

u/awkwardferret421

3406

People who rarely or never get sick, what are your secrets?

https://www.reddit.com/r/AskReddit/comments/1q7et1n/people_who_rarely_or_never_get_sick_what_are_your/

Fuck AI

We are a Sub dedicated to exposing all the bad about AI, and how harmful it is to actual human workers, artists, writers, and everything else that an AI can ruin.

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/FuckAI •

u/Big_Syllabub7356

162

Opinion on companies ai boom

I really feel disgusted by fact that companies think that ai generated images are good enough to be used as logos or advertisements. I also hate sudden ai hype when every company started adding ai in various forms to EVERYTHING. Like now lawn movers fsr use ai. Fridge is ai controlled, why? I dont know. Adding "ai" is some kind of fancy buzzword that will make sales go up? I want to hear your opinion on that because personally ai logos make me wanna vomit. (Btw sorry for any launlanguage mistakes i am a grammar imbecile)

https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lwodex/opinion_on_companies_ai_boom/

r/FuckAI •

u/Tall_Impression7437

74

AI is just a term of laziness

Ever since AI became a thing I HATED it and this is a genz saying this. The dixkheads using this crap hide the laziness saying its a "tool". Ha carnts make me laugh. AI is rubbish any type of it and ppl that print money by copy and pasting ai don't deserve the income when it's not their work. I hope AI crashes and completely dies out it's crap. Even the content it produces how do ppl like it it's horrid.

https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lw11e0/ai_is_just_a_term_of_lazines/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Deadpool0600  44

Do we hate AI (LLM) or what people are doing with it?

I was having a think, and I am no coder, but I know how to code and know how computers work and have a good understanding of how LLMs function and pull information. But It got me think that they are VERY useful tools, but instead people use them for making shit slop art that are a dime a dozen and porn bots.

So do you hate LLMs ("AI") or do you hate what people are doing with the tech?

My answer is I hate what is being done with it, I hate how it's being used to removed people from the work environment, I hate how people online that don't know how the tech works use it to make "art" and get pissy when you tell them they didn't make shit. By mostly I HATE that is is being shoved down our necks by corps who see AI as the next big thing and want to sell it to us in everything. An how those same corps use what we do on those models and use it to make the model better, we

I personally would rather like an offline stable model I could train and grow. Back to the old days when the models would watch 1,000 hours of batman movies and then be asked to write a script and that script to be the most meme worthy crapshoot ever. Hell I could train to to run solo D&D campaigns or be an opponent in board games or tabletop games.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lvi6gm/do_we_hate_ai_llm_or_what_people_are_doing_with_it/

r/FuckAI •

 u/wane_music  7

What's up with these "data annotation" jobs??

This is my first post after joining this sub because all the ai stuff has been increasingly unsettling to me as of late. I don't know about anyone else, but I have been getting a ton of ads, specifically on YouTube, that are either selling some product that uses Ai as a feature, or those scammy seeming remote "data annotation" jobs. As someone who is somewhat desperate for money at the moment, I clicked the first time I saw it, not be way more cost effective to just pay artists and writers to do all the stuff that companies are using AI for? I'm not very business savvy, but it seems like its going to, at the very least, make AI more expensive to use because the AI companies are having to pay those doing annotation. Perhaps I misunderstand the situation, but I am sort of hoping that all this will eventually implode on itself, or at least cause people to realize how stupid AI is before the world is burned to the ground. Anyway, am kind of just venting and need some folks to tell me I am not just being petty

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lui7mf/whats_up_with_these_data_annotation_jobs/

r/FuckAI •

 u/ImSMHattheWorld  26

Will ai generated content mean the death of the internet?

If you think about, ai content should only get better and more difficult to spot over time. When it becomes too hard to know what's from where, it seems a logical step to prevent its spread would be to not use the internet, at least as we now do. What do you all think or know? Is there a solution coming? Or will it just cease to be important?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lu7vul/will_ai_generated_content_mean_the_death_of_the/

r/FuckAI •

u/Im_Trying_pls 👍 339

Found AI art being sold openly in Hobby Lobby.

This actually makes me really sad.

🔑 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ltnthe/found_ai_art_being_sold_openly_in_hobby_lobby/

r/FuckAI •

 u/General_Document5494  26

I'm afraid

I'm afraid of the day AI and robotics get together. And no it hasn't happend yet. But when it happens us normal average humans might not even be worth anything to those rich people. Yall get what I'm saying? Companies won't need physical human labour anymore. Soldiers will be replaced by military robots (who unlike humans will obay every command with zero hesitation). I can't even imagine what would this world be for a normal person if that day become real.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lsy6o5/im_afraid/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Recent_Ingeniuty6428  5

Wouldn't you want to create an A.I. or a Drone that was meant to be different than a human, with traits unlike humans and capability to do things that humans can and don't do, instead of making them replicate humans?

I don't understand why they want an A.I. to be just like a human but succeed in doing the things that humans already do. If you are to make a tool, it should be a tool that either enhances your already existing abilities, or to do things you cannot do. Super computers with good references and faster information travel than humans, okay. Drones that can move way faster and more mobile than humans with more reaction and action reflex, okay. Now the big reason that we have successfully reached the top of the food chain is due to our ability to be a completely mobile and fast for killing or saving or building, if you wanna make a drone. Make something that has redicoulous amount of information, has fast processing, and can represent + translate that information. Storage is important part for both forms of technology along as many others. BUT WHY, are we trying to replicate ourselves with our exact flaws??? We need to make separate devices that are meant to do specific tasks that are extremely well at that task, we don't need a flawed swiss army knife. If we make it exactly like us, than we only add to the overpopulation issues.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lsw14n/wouldnt_you_want_to_create_an_ai_or_a_drone_that/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Cy_Maverick  96

I Used AI and Now Hate It

knew AI was bad creatively speaking. I always was against people using it for ideas for a book, or work of art, etc. Or even heavily using it to edit their novels. But I used it to "help" me quickly organize my essays. I kept telling myself that it's my research, my sentences. I'm just giving ChatGPT bullet points. I just need to get this done on time. I was SO wrong. It took only a few weeks before I noticed that I couldn't write a sentence without stressing about if it's worded correctly. Or if it could be worded better. It carried into my creative writing. I started to ask ChatGPT what they think. Does this sound right? Does this flow? It's answer: Yes! But this could make it better! Do this to add detail! Add these words. This should really help bring it all together!

I lost my voice...

Nothing I wrote sounded like I did it. I started to feel empty about my work. The ideas were mine. The timeline of events were mine. The characters. But even quickly I became a hypocrite. How quickly I got addicted to it. Even writing this, the thought crossed my mind to ask it how to end this post. Because honestly, I don't know. I guess I just wanted to share my experience. I wish I could share it with everyone that uses AI, but I'm guessing not everyone will care about losing their voice. As long as the work gets done.

Yesterday I completed an assignment without even thinking about asking ChatGPT their thoughts. It felt amazing. And I feel confident about the assignment.

Fuck AI.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lrg859/i_used_ai_and_now_hate_it/

r/FuckAI •

u/Stardust_1811

165

School asking us to use AI in the art lesson???

I cannot be the only person who has a problem with this I was scrolling through and looking at this years art class curriculum and "Practice using AI to turn photograph into a painting style" during the lesson.

Doesn't this just defeat the whole purpose of the art lesson in the first place??? Like not only is this bad for the environment but also this has no originality? It's just stolen from real artists/photographers.

own physical drawings and submit them in.)

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lr46w2/school_asking_us_to_use_ai_in_the_art_lesson/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Fali92  11

AI Art will be held by big corporations in the future

Don't these ai defenders on reddit realize that they won't be able to access the ai tools in the future due to copyright infringements? Soon it will all belong to the big ones and they will feed off real artists.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lqrqoj/ai_art_will_be_held_by_big_corporations_in_the/

r/FuckAI •

 u/White_Walker101  45

My mother made a twisted autobiography with AI

I need to vent about a book my mom pulled out of nowhere yet again.

This is also kind of an updated post. I made one a couple months ago about my mother making a whole AI promoted (software used) book and wanted me to read it and be her editor.

That was just a fiction book.

Now she's come out with another AI book. This time it's a twisted version of an autobiography of her life. And she said "I printed out my other book."

I read through most of it and she used my real name and other family members names who didn't even consent to being in this book.

mother has made an entire book of us being a happy family and going through harsh family dynamics but always seeming to pull through.

It is so pretentious and so gross and I am honestly really really disturbed. Nothing about me is even true (it wouldn't have been better if it was but still), and it is such a sickly sweetly twisted story of a weird happy family.

My sister left the household at 16. Never came back, got pregnant, married and has three kids. Has never been to any of the houses we've lived at because she detests my stepfather.

My mother has NEVER shared any interest in writing or me as a person for that matter and has always just put on a happy and pretend face, if you ask her we have a pretty good relationship, she would say it's not perfect but it's good.

Hell no. It's not. We are so far from close or from understanding one another it's actually insane (not for the lack of trying, she's kind of narcissistic, no I'm not just throwing that term around, and self centered like the world revolves around her, she never listens to me or any of my real deep problems and therefore we aren't close at all), I have no

Dissociation. Numb. Anger.

Like the AI sport ware didn't even remember her "husbands" name, and changed it to something entirely different. She has never been married and has had insane trouble with love for most of her life.

I'm guessing this book was to make her feel better as a mother, as if she can look back and see another version of like she "created".

I get it, cool you wish you could have done things differently. But either change our names and make it a fictional version of the story you want or make an actually autobiography.

I'm a writer. She has me down as an artist, my younger sister (step sister, but the only person I'll actually call my sister), is the actual artist and she's damn good at it.

I cannot seem to stand AI the more it's come about, and the more people can have the free reign to do as they please with AI, it's really starting to bother me.

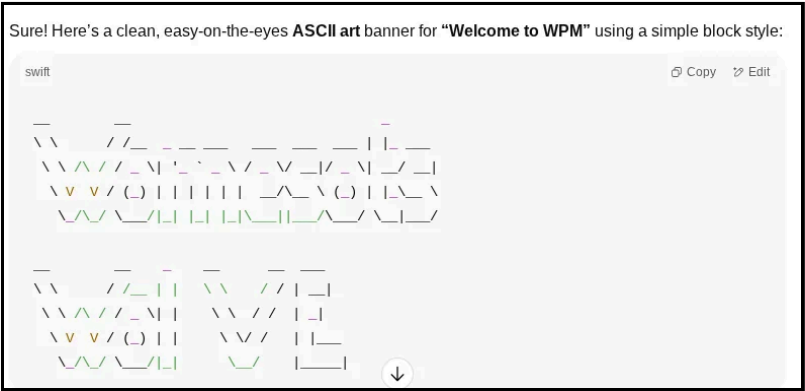

Thankfully she hasn't asked me or brought up reading it or giving her feedback because I honestly am floored. I am so https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lp6v6u/my_mother_made_a_twisted_autobiography_with_ai/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Successful_Dig_8021  34

chatgpt is getting "better"

WOMESOTS WOLVE

https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1plc5g/chatgpt_is_getting_better/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Zomhuahua  244

My step brother wants to transform my father into AI slop

I am fucking outraged by the idea and the rest of my family doesn't seem to understand what's the big deal. I can admit that I might be acting stubborn, so I could be willing to change my posture if someone around here gave me an insight about why this could be a good idea.

mildly famous writer, who won some important awards in my country. So there's a ton of stuff written by him, as well as interviews and lectures available online. My step brother (who is NOT my father's son and did not even attend the funeral) unilaterally decided it would be a fantastic idea to turn my father into a "Tamagotchi" (his words, not mine), to help my mother deal with grief. He wants to input everything my father ever ever wrote into ChatGPT to create an AI version of my dad.

I find this idea disrespectful and tacky as fuck but I'm also extremely concerned about what this could mean for my father's written legacy. My step brother has been pressuring my mom to hand over everything my father has written to feed the AI. While royalties related to my father's writings are almost worthless (saw a few documents where he was getting something like $1.50 for royalties on books sold), I do want to believe that creating a cinematic adaptation of some of his best books and I am extremely afraid that this AI shenanigans could jeopardize that opportunity.

My father left all his royalties to my mother, when my mother is gone, I will inherit them. My step brother is not part of that inheritance at all.

Here's what's more complicated. He showed us a demo of what he had "worked" with. I personally found it repulsive, it sounded like a pompous, foreign and intellectualoid version of my father. He did not talk like that, at all. To be fair, the AI version of my dad did regurgitate some of my father's interests and views. My step brother actually said that "it could be a better version of him, without his defects". He's an engineer, of course he would think something like that, on the other hand, I wanted to puke.... however, here's where the actual dilemma begins. My mom could be thoroughly dissatisfied if she actually tested the AI slop for more than one hour. But... it does make me feel slightly bad to take that away from my mom if it makes her feel better. My mom lives in a land of fantasy and unmeasured positivity, where everything is possible, she was absolutely sure my father was going to bounce back and was even saying my father was going to come back healthier than ever (she was saying this while my father was unable to say a single word or move an inch of his body for more than three months). So, I don't know, I think she doesn't see everything wrong with the AI version of my dad as a way to cope. I've read about people falling in love with an AI that's not even personified as the late love of their life, so it's kind of harsh to judge my mom about her acceptance of that monstrous version of my father.

What do you guys think? Am I being stubborn about this? Should I let this go on turning my father into AI slop is a terrible idea? I'd also be willing to read anyone who has good arguments to justify why this is a positive idea.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lof4ff/my_step_brother_wants_to_transform_my_father_into/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Jellybean_Pumpkin  24

I am SO TIRED of all the Ai-bootlickers and their annoying mental gymnastics.

That's it. That's the post. Bring up anything about ethics, about how Ai is potentially dangerous when it comes to disinformation, taking away jobs, not allowing ANYONE to ever make it into the art/writing industry, being used by big corporations to save money on things they used to pay people for, being used by kids instead of learning, which has long term implications on education, these people just insult you and tell you that you're "afraid of the future."

The internet came with a whole SLEW of problems that still effects us today. People complained back then about needing regulations and guess what? We STILL need the regulations they talked about back then.

Social media is great isn't it? Except for when it sells drugs to kids, is slowly making people more anxious and wrong, has led to increased stalking, and so on.

But noooooo. Saying generative Ai is NOT ALWAYS A GOOD THING, and should be monitored is radical apparently.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1lf6q9v/i_am_so_tired_of_all_the_aibootlickers_and_their/

r/FuckAI •

u/Remarkable-Bid8414

10

Could AI effectively kill itself

The more data it shits out the more data it eats back up... wouldn't that be a snake eating it's own tail? Or like drinking nothing but your piss?

If anyone knows the actual mechanism behind this, please explain it to me like I'm 65

https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1letd62/could_ai_effectively_kill_itself/

r/FuckAI •

 u/NomadicJ3ster  8

Could I potentially make AI mode go away
by repeatedly searching things like "I hate AI mode"

I've used Ublock to hide the AI mode tab, but google sometimes throws a hideous popup in my face essentially demanding that I try out any way I could get rid of it.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ldy5ld/could_i_potentially_make_ai_mode_go_away_by/

r/FuckAI •

 u/posenby_w  7

my grandma is obsessed with an AI game

i need help trying to figure out how to get my grandma to stop damaging her brain looking at an ai generated image for several hours every day . she loves "seek-an-object" games , and this ai one has apparently anything she wants in that type of game . she says she's "building brain cells" by finding the objects , then complains about how sometimes the objects don't look quite right and i'm like "coz it's ai generated" and she takes me saying that as like a direct attack and shuts down . i know i talk a lot about how ai is so bad , and at this point my family could care less , but it's legitimately destroying her brain looking at those photos for so long . please any advice will help .

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1la0e56/my_grandma_is_obsessed_with_an_ai_game/

r/FuckAI •

 u/lemonklaeyz  9

Glad I found this

I was following some major ai subs like ChatGPT, Singularity and OpenAI etc... just to keep myself informed as to what's happening (bc it's awful for true artists and deeply concerning for well being of humanity).

I ended up leaving all the groups after a few days because I couldn't stomach the posts anymore. From people showing off the newest dumb ChatGPT (stolen) "artistic" rendering of themselves, to others celebrating how realistic the human emotions are getting as if it's a good thing. We have entered the final era of idiocracy.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1kx3khx/glad_i_found_this/

r/FuckAI •

 u/DevinGraysonShirk  119

How can I detect whether images are AI easily on my phone?

I recently started a subreddit and I don't want to allow AI generated images or memes. What's an easy way to detect whether an image is AI generated on my phone? I use an iPhone. Thank you!

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1jmvzvhc/how_can_i_detect_whether_images_are_ai_easily_on/

r/FuckAI •

 [deleted]  11

Apparently not liking neoliberal politeness makes someone into an Elon stan this days

I made a self defeatist Nazi joke, defended myself badly and now out of context screenshots are on defendingaiart becousue I "compliment the antis well".

The joke was about how I'm surprised by the existence of pro ai nazis becousue I though at least nazis were traditionalist enough to hate ai at the very least becousue it's new. The actual joke was just me saying that I thought that at least nazis would back me up and latter I referenced a conversation with a Nazi(not technically but in my head its close enough) I had about art a few months ago.

I'm litteraly a queer degrowth advocating communist. I wasn't aligning myself with anyone, I made an edgy joke and didn't understand what the issue was and I still don't.

honest about the issues that exist with your own side the hard way.

Also saying that I don't see anything problematic about my joke, and that someone is behaving like the "woke humor police" that the right wing comedians are talking about isn't a kind of thing you can say when people don't see your face or hear your voice so they just assume the worse possible scenario. That's a thing I should keep in mind.

This isn't even about ai for me, it's just an aspect of neoliberalism that I hate.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ip6kpl/apparently_not_liking_neoliberal_politeness_makes/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Book1sh  26

Under pressure to use AI at work

Since starting my job several months ago, I've been very vocal about my stance on using AI, particularly its environmental impact. My manager teases me about it.

Everyone in our department was just invited to do a lunchtime (ugh) training on "AI query engineering." I feel like I should go because I don't want to seem like I'm not a team player or whatever but I also don't want my manager to think I've changed my mind about my ethical stance on using ChatGPT for my job. I don't think I'll get in trouble if I don't attend...

to make money and is probably going to go out of business. I want to be better at my job myself, not get gradually worse because I'm cheating.

Has anyone here been in this situation?
What did you do about it?

.....
https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1in3dq4/under_pressure_to_use_ai_at_work/

r/FuckAI •

 u/DraftAbject5026  14

We have a problem here

So I've noticed recently that this place has become an echo chamber, whether you want to believe it or not. And our enemy knows this. And although I really hate AI, we can't let ourselves be like this. We have to be better and smarter than all those AI idiots. We can't sink to their level. We must win by glory and honor, as it is the only way to win this battle. So instead of being simple minded and just saying AI is bad, which won't convince them of anything, show them the statistics of all the people losing their jobs and happiness from AI. We can only win if we think independently and persevere with our logic.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ilxt2d/we_have_a_problem_here/

r/FuckAI •

 u/JustANickName_  16

AI content has more human involvement than people give it credit for" Yeah sure, totally, no doubt...

They originally said that "AI essentially learns like a human". This is a reply towards a comment saying/explaining that the Typical AI bro speak I guess...

"look how much creative work I do by generating a bunch of images until there's something that doesn't completely look like shit"

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ikax6h/ai_content_has_more_human_involvement_than_people/

r/FuckAI •

 u/Auroriia  59

Ai art and AI animation is an actual Spit in the Face to actual animators and illustrators, character designers and I'm tired of artist's telling people not to be angry and "Hide my feelings"

It's exhausting. Hearing over and over,

"Well AI is better" "Ai is more creative, It's more entertaining" "These pictures are AI, Don't please be going with criticism to these people"

Are these artist's Just actually stupid?

Is that why you have a Massive influx of people just steamrolling it over to Bluesky? So Other they can crash with other ai users? Why is all of a sudden is everyone supportive of massive Puppy dog water Frankenstein flooded with AI like pinterest, or youtube, bluesky Now, Or twitter, deviantart or artstation? Like what in the world is actually happening? Am I just meant to accept people are just 10% IQ Now and have tik tok brain or what? What the actual hell man.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/FuckAI/comments/1ii062w/ai_art_and_ai_animation_is_an_actual_spit_in_the/

What If

Ponder the potential! A sub where asking "what if?" is everything

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/whatif •

 u/Darth_Azazoth  7

What if you could cure any illness by beating it out of the patient?

In this scenario illness is anything other than injuries

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1qc9659/what_if_you_could_cure_any_illness_by_beating_it/

r/whatif •

u/PsychologicalCry817

14

What if some stranger was hiding in your house, and you secretly knew it. What do you do?

I've been thinking about this for a long time, like what if you were in your house, it's dark and late.. But you know something, you know someone is there with you.. What do you do, how would you feel?

(2) What if you encountered, or saw them hidden and peeking out a closet? Would you get ready for combat, what would you use?

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1qbs7xo/what_if_some_stranger_was_hiding_in_your_house/

r/whatif •

u/AdBig3211

16

What if genie exists, and you can have 3 wishes? what would you wish for? (No wishing for more wishes lol)

Probably i would wish for, Good government (live in philippines which sucks here sometimes, it's a corruption.) And my family gets some big salary in their job. And give all things what my family wants from their life (yes i love my family i know)

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1qa1wtj/what_if_genie_exists_and_you_can_have_3_wishes/

r/whatif •

 u/Imma_Lick_That  8

What if immortality was just a tablet a day away?

Imagine someone creates a synthetic drug that if taken daily, halts the aging process. The process is cheap and easy to replicate. Anyone with a basic set up and cursory knowlage of chemistry could make it. They could make billions selling to the highest bidder but instead publicly posts the entire process for the world to see, deciding that prolonged life should be available for all. What would happen? Would it instantly be companies react?

What if it's become easier and readily available, and affordable for all? The population could quickly become unstable if no one dies of old age.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1qascw8/what_if_immortality_was_just_a_tablet_a_day_away/

r/whatif •

u/Johnyme98

34

What If humans disappear one day, What species would be the next dominant one?

Consider this, one day humans were to disappear from earth for whatever reason and earth has let's say 100 years to evolve, what animal species would you think would be the dominant one?

r/whatif •

 u/Medium_Hope_7407  8

What if a conjoined twin committed murder?

I'm thinking specifically about Abbey and Brittany Hensel. Abby actually got married not too long ago. They both apparently control one leg and one arm of their body. So what if Abby just shot her husband in cold blood one day? What would happen? How could she possibly be prosecuted and punished for the crime considering that any punishment would effectively punish her innocent sister Brittany?

mitted_murder/

r/whatif •

u/Aromatic-Bell-7085

34

What if you were transported back in year 2000?

How would you prove to your family and other people that you came from.year 2026?

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q79ld6/what_if_you_were_transporterd_back_in_year_2000/

r/whatif •

 u/TutsTots  6

What if we humans never had to eat?

As the title says, what if we humans never had to eat or consume any sorts of food/organic materials. Because from the general point of view, eating is very expensive, we spend a lot of resources (money) trying to keep our bodies functioning. I don't have a problem with eating or food, it's just food is so expensive and that can hit you really hard when your finances are kinda shaky. Even if we had to eat, if our bodies evolved to function on low calories without any effects would be so of a thought but hear me out, food is so expensive, imagine if we didn't have to do all that, all the resources that'd be saved and utilized elsewhere.

Anyways, that's my what if.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q8bhk1/what_if_we_humans_never_had_to_eat/

r/whatif •

 u/Defiant-Junket4906  13

What if all humans suddenly vanished from Earth?

Humans are currently the dominant species on the planet. But if we were to disappear without warning, what species do you think would rise to take our place? Would it be one of the animals we already see thriving or something unexpected?

How might ecosystems shift and change without human influence? Would dominance come from intelligence, adaptability, numbers, or something else entirely?

What does it even mean to be the dominant species in a world without humans?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q79f44/what_if_all_humans_suddenly_vanished_from_earth/

r/whatif •

u/xthe_official

6

What if, starting in 2026, humans seriously began moving to Mars.
not a plan, but actual migration?

Would we be building a new world, or just exporting all our old problems?

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q7rysx/what_if_starting_in_2026_humans_seriously_began/

r/whatif •

 u/fxst-jxlllybean  5

What if we couldn't experince spoilers?

What if we couldn't experience spoilers?

Any form of spoiler mind you, even if it's even a common quote from a popular show, if you haven't seen the show or watched the episode, you just wouldn't hear it. Haven't read the bible? Instead of "Jesus died for our sins," it's just "Jesus" followed by warbled static. I feel like a valid exception for this would be movie/show or game trailers, excerpts on the back on books, but any form of spoiler or reference from anything you haven't experienced, would never be shared to you unless you DO experience it. You read the book, watch the show, play the game, and now you understand the previously redacted context.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q9n5nw/what_if_we_couldnt_experince_spoilers/

r/whatif •

 u/Bigjoemonger  152

What if major metropolitan areas became their own separate entities?

In Illinois one of the biggest complaints the rest of the state has is how much state taxes goes from rural areas to support Chicago. (Whether or not that is true is not the point of this post.) And it's driving significant efforts to

I imagine similar complaints exist in other states where there's a significant difference between major cities and rural areas. It doesn't really make sense to cover both types of areas under the same economic system when both have such different needs.

So what if it was setup such that when a metropolitan area reaches a certain population density then it essentially becomes a self governing city state with its own ruling body and budget. The rest of the state then has its own governing body and budget.

I'm wondering what pros and cons there might be. Don't be a dick, this is just for fun.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1pinl94/what_if_major_metropolitan_areas_became_their_own/

r/whatif •

 u/DreamFighter72  2

What if robots were used to fight wars?

Robots are getting more advanced these days, and many companies are developing them for commercial use. What if these robots got so advanced that the military decided to use them to carryout military operations and fight in wars?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q6opwj/what_if_robots_were_used_to_fight_wars/

r/whatif •

 u/Danthrax81  32

What if you were the last generation that had to work

Imagine the unlikely scenario where AI and automation replaced pretty much all jobs, mental and physical, grueling and cooshy, and society successfully introduces UI, so every person can now free themselves from toil and have a home and eat and do what they want when they want.

But the kicker is, you're 55 years old, and you've been grinding away at a life draining

Or you were a rich person with money, property, affluence and power, but now the average person has access to all the toys you do.

The teenagers and twenty somethings would have their whole lives ahead of them to be carefree and pursue what they want without inhibition. Meanwhile you paid the best years of your life into a system that is obsolete and meaningless.

I'd be pretty pissed off. Wouldn't you?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1pdzy8d/what_if_you_were_the_last_generation_that_had_to/

r/whatif •

 u/Manofpans44  52

What If Britain Has Won the Revolutionary War

After viewing Ken Burn's recent documentary on the American Revolution, I've given some thought to what the US might look like today had the British won. My feeling is that we'd look a lot like Canada, several American leaders, i.e. Geo Washington, Thomas Jefferson, et al, would have been tried for treason, the Civil War may have been avoided and Native Americans would've received better treatment. Your thoughts?

revolutionary_war/

r/whatif •

 u/Inevitable-Angle-793  21

What if I had ability to enter other people's dreams, how useful would it be, and would anyone realize it?

What if I had ability to enter other people's dream, how useful would it be, and would anyone realize it?

Bonus: If I could enter AND alter their dreams.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q4rmi6/what_if_i_had_ability_to_enter_other_peoples/

r/whatif •

 u/Serious-Affect-8538  10

What if you jump into earth?

So, I was having a conversation with my teacher and I asked him a question "What if the earth's core wouldn't be lava and there would be a hypothetical hole going through the earth. Would you be stuck in the middle?"

So we know we have this thing called gravity (invented by Newton). And we know that the earth is not flat. Theoretically, we could just jump through the earth and land in Australia. But would we make it to the other side, if the gravity would start to pull us opposite direction after reaching the middle point.

🔗 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q4iozx/what_if_you_jump_into_earth/

r/whatif •

 u/braamohh7  29

What if everytime your ear rings, your fate changes?

What if everytime your ear rings, your fate changes? , whether its an action you did or something else someone did

🔗 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1p402gi/what_if_everytime_your_ear_rings_your_fate_changes/

r/whatif •

u/Equal-Sun8307

4

What if you could read someone’s mind by direct eye contact?

How would this affect your life? What would you do with this ability?

Things to consider

This form of telepathy will allow you to read a person’s thoughts only as long as you have eye contact. Most of the time you will see short flashes from their mind from casual or accidental eye contact . The longer you maintain contact the more you will be able to perceive.

This ability is constant and cannot be shut off, but you can avoid the trigger. Also this ability will not allow you to control another person’s thoughts or behaviors https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1p264y1/what_if_you_could_read_som_eones_mind_by_direct/

r/whatif •

u/IDontKnowMyUsernameq

3

What if reddit was entirely video based?

Let's say all posts are a video of you talking.
No written text anywhere. And all comments are videos of someone talking in response to your post.

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1p22ku0/what_if_reddit_was_entirely_video_based/

r/whatif •

 u/lifeisg0d  5

What if roughly the same percentage of women as men also went bald?

Would we all be bald because it's fashionable? Would we all get hair transplants and wear wigs? I find thinking about the social implications of this incredibly interesting.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q3xuay/what_if_roughly_the_same_percentage_of_women_as/

r/whatif •

u/AgreeableTravel3720

3

What if all flies disappeared from existence?

I know I'd be very happy. I don't know how many times I've had to freaking swat 100 flies away some even end up inside my mouth. Flies don't do that much, I mean, they pollinate but bees do that to.

https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1p1xipv/what_if_all_flies_disappeared_from_existence/

r/whatif •

 u/Defiant-Junket4906  14

What if some of today's technologies simply disappear in the next 50 years?

We usually talk about what the future will create, but I'm curious about what it will quietly leave behind.

Not because those technologies failed, but now might slowly become unnecessary, then strange to explain.

What technologies do you think future generations will wonder why we relied on at all?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1q3oe7m/what_if_some_of_todays_technologies_simply/

r/whatif •

 u/IDontKnowMyUsernameq  0

What if Jesus was a woman?

Would less people believe in Christianity? I ask because a preacher once told us that if a father in the head of house became a Christian, the children are way more likely to also become a Christian as opposed to if the mother became a Christian. So that's how that connects.

Would people around the world still dedicate their lives to Jesus and his mission? Or would a Jesus woman end up being worshipped like a mysterious object that can't be understood?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/whatif/comments/1p0pbvi/what_if_jesus_was_a_woman/

Am I Overreacting

A subreddit to help figure out if you overreacted to something, or if you were justified.

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/1bunchofbananas  21025

AIO my bf didn't even say happy birthday to me yesterday

My bf (38m) didn't wish me (31F) a happy birthday yesterday. He said nothing. So I sent him the message about the cake and nachos and he sent that. I really across the street from his work for 5 minutes to see me but he did not. Was my no pitty party response too much? Should I not be upset about this situation?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qbqzm9/aio_my_bf_didnt_even_say_happy_birthday_to_me/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/mooresmistress  583

Am I Overreacting since my gf kicked me out of the shower

I (23m) am dating a girl (22f) and she frequently spends the night at my place. Yesterday we were showering together and as one would do in the shower I decided to use shampoo. I however failed to remember that my girlfriend had not shampooed already. When she realized that I had begun shower. I have 2 roommates and did not care to either explain the crazy situation or have them think I'm hurting her so I quickly exited and put on my shorts and asked to borrow my roommates shower. Upon returning to my room my gf proceeded to sit and ignore me in the shower for the next hour and a half. I ended up going to sleep as I have responsibilities in the morning and when I wake up she's gone. I have been ignoring her since and she's been blowing up my phone. Her texts have ranged from talking about the shampoo and how it's horrible that I didn't wait, to her begging to come over and hang out and pretend like none of it happened. Am I overreacting for considering breaking up with her/not wanting to pretend like none of it happened?

Context: for those saying just leave and break up, I understand how simple that sounds but I as a person struggle with that. My mom has a new family and does not one to end a relationship or friendship due to not wanting to lose people in my life. I know I need therapy to work on it but none of that's the point.

Edit: forgot to mention things that I've been seeing in comments also this is my first time posting so I have no idea what I'm doing I've edited like 4 times to add updates

-all shower products are mine -I did not use all of the bottle it's more than half full -she told me multiple times since the incident occurred that's there's no other reason besides it was rude of me to not wait

UPDATE: Yea I figured I wasn't overreacting and honestly this is nothing compared to some of the other shit she's done. I just needed some validation to make sure I wasn't going insane. I plan on breaking up with her. Does anyone have a recommendation for where I can post other https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qf54fb/am_i_overreacting_since_my_gf_kicked_me_out_of/

.....

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/centaurella  1153

AIO— apparently i'm the stinky one at work

omg i can't believe i'm making this post but need some insight.

basically after work my coworker, who i've gotten along with so far, pulled me aside to have a private conversation. they told me i have a very offensive and strong sweaty B.O smell, and wanted to be the one to tell me as not to risk management being the ones to talk to me about it and me potentially losing my job over my "smell." apparently this is a daily occurrence, i always smell really bad.

would consider to be very good hygiene— i shower at least once a day, twice if i've sweat a good amount. i wash all over with good quality soap. i wash my clothes and if i wear the same thing twice before washing i do a smell test always (we have to wear certain clothes for work so yes sometimes i have to re wear stuff). i wear deodorant always, perfume too as it is an interest of mine and i actually thought that was what they were gonna bring up at first. i take pride in caring for my body and being clean.

i haven't been told i smell bad by anyone else except for my cousin (overall mean and jealous person) once when i was younger, and ever since it has been a deep insecurity of mine and i've tried to maintain the best possible hygiene.

during the convo i maintained my composure, admitted i'm embarrassed but was also like ok ill try not to be stinky and a doctor. then when we left the office, they said "i'm gonna leave this door open, heh" as if it the room needed to be aired out after i was confined in there. that really sent me for a loop.

so after this happened i felt absolutely horrible and ashamed as it was so unexpected, i bawled my eyes out and asked my boyfriend and parents if i smell bad and begged them to be honest and they all vehemently said NO i don't smell and they were as shocked as i am, and wondering if maybe the coworker has something wrong with their nose or maybe even just straight up lying.

honestly i'm kinda spiraling, wondering if i and those close to me are just nose blind and i actually do have an extremely offensive and off putting body odor. the coworker said it is a daily occurrence.

they should tell their stinky co worker that their BO is making everyone nauseas. turns out i am that coworker.

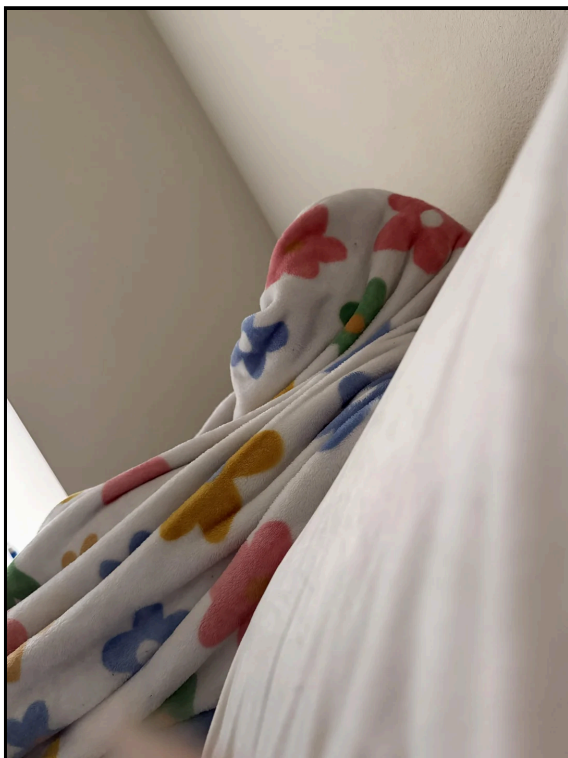

AIO??? like this has seriously took away every shred of confidence i had and made me question everything and i don't want to go back to work.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qf2fa6/aio_apparently_im_the_stinky_one_at_work/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/blairwaldorff  16866

AIO? This is how my boyfriend sleeps.

Like a damn mummy completely wrapped up. I'm constantly worried that he's going to suffocate or something. He spends ALL night like this, sometimes to randomly wake up in the middle of the night and look over to see that. AIO? He says I'm being dramatic.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1q96lb8/aio_this_is_how_my_boyfriend_sleeps/

r/AmIOverreacting •

u/Jazzlike-Ad6372 👍 2030

AIO boyfriend told me I text him like he's a homie and got upset now he's ignoring me

All the context is in the screenshots, he got upset because of that and now he's ignoring my texts because he needs

I'm upset cause this is unfair. We're BOTH in our 20s so I find it such a non issue and I don't get why it was even brought up when the conversation looked FINE to me. Was I mean though? Did I over react with my last texts?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qerey4/aio_boyfriend_told_me_i_text_him_like_hes_a_homie/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/PleasantProcedure732  55

AIO, my in laws want to take 4 year old on cruise while I'm freshly postpartum.

AIO? My in laws want to take our 4 year old daughter on a cruise without us. I trust my in laws completely with my child but I will be freshly postpartum and more than likely dealing with some PPA/PPD. They thought it think it would only cause me major anxiety. We cruise yearly so I'm familiar with how safe cruises are. I'm just worried about if something happened how far away I'd be from her and to get to her I'd have to leave baby with someone. I don't think my anxiety could handle it. My husband thinks I'm letting my anxiety get the best of me but I think it's a horrible idea. I don't think it would help me relax. This isn't my first rodeo with postpartum and I feel very confident this will do nothing but stress me out more. I'm standing very firm on not letting her go. AIO?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qfexyd/aio_my_in_laws_want_to_take_4_year_old_on_cruise/

r/AmlOverreacting •

u/Mysterious-ASL

10603

AIO- Should I have disclosed that I'm Deaf earlier

Yesterday 7:02 AM

Hi [REDACTED] I feel like your being deaf should have come up much earlier in this conversation. It bothers me that you were so verbose during these conversations, but chose to omit something so essential.

Best of luck to you.

https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qbkumi/aio_should_i_have_disclosed_that_im_deaf_earlier/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/Great-Routine9964  614

AIO: My husband wants to take a solo trip to visit his girl best friend

Update: I have already reached out to a counselor and told him I dont want to discuss it any further until we speak with them.

I've seen some comments referring to multiple trips. To be clear, the December trip did not happen. He has not seen her alone.

My (34f) husband (34m), has a "girl best friend" who I have not gotten along with since they became friends in college.

There is a lot of back story and history so I will do my best to explain this here.

Basically, she is a selfish friend who is constantly "in crisis" and uses this to get him to always save her. He has a bit of a superman complex and likes to help/save people, and often struggles to communicate effectively.

This combo has caused issues big and small throughout the years. At the smallest- not texting me back when hes with her and/or being beyond later than he is supposed to with no communication.

At the biggest - aside from the newest issue I

STATE DURING A SNOW STORM because she got vertigo. Him and her cousin and friend had to do this, and he let a stranger drive our car in terrible conditions.

To be clear, she was safe in a coworkers house, not stranded on the side of the road or anything.

Another time, I found out he was hiding in the car to talk to her on the phone.

And here we are now. She moved to another time zone this past fall. She has visited at least twice since then.

In early December, we were at a group outing and in a conversation with a friend, he casually brought up planning to fly to her city days before Christmas. I am talking like, leaving in two weeks. I had never heard a word about a trip before that.

and for seemingly bringing it up in public to control my reaction, because he knew I wouldn't like it.

After talking/fighting about it he agreed he wouldn't try to do any type of solo trip to her for a year.

Then, just the other night we sat down to talk about our planned trips and budget for the year, one of which being a trip to her city together. This trip is for an event and has no attachment to her, and I think we even planned it before she announced her move. I've told him he can plan for a day to see her without me while we're there.

He casually dropped "...and then my solo trip to visit her in March or April."

I lost it a bit. We talked in circles about how this isn't what we discussed. He called me controlling and admitted he only "agreed" to was her fluffer boyfriend. He said even if we can't agree on boundaries for this trip he is still inclined to go.

Now I feel like any trust I had left is broken. Will he even follow through on anything we agree to while he is there? Or will he just agree to shut me up and do whatever he wants when the time comes?

So, am I over reacting about my husband's relationship and the idea of him going to see her alone?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qeu4hr/aio_my_husband_wants_to_take_a_solo_trip_to_visit/

r/AmlOverreacting •

u/throwawayhinutcase

35

AIO if I just go on holiday and not come back?

I don't really know how to start this because I'm just kinda done. I'm a closeted gay person and currently live with my extremely homophobic jehovahs witness mother. She's 73, has a stomach ulcer, and whiles not abusive, she can just be so hard to deal with sometimes. I pay rent, do half the cleaning, washing, organise and prep all meals and just generally look after her. My other siblings are all no or low contact, with the exception of my sister who lives far away and has kids of her own. I understand and respect why my siblings have decided to limit harm by going no or low contact, but it means that it's just me here left on my own when my mum is screaming about how nobody cares about her and how everyone would be happier if she died, or goes on long rants about how "Wordly people are so disgusting, I'm so glad jehovah is going to cleanse the earth of them soon" I love my mum but I can't keep doing this.

My mum is a fairly large woman and I am not. She's dragged me around by my hair as an adult. I do understand why she did, but it was incredibly upsetting. When I was about 21 we got into an argument, my mum has a habit of physically pushing me out of the way if I try to talk her down and encourage her to sit down and talk things through. This particular time I admittedly lost my rag, I got so angry and just grabbed her hands hands to try and stop her from pushing past me. I know I should never have put my hands on her, but I just desperately needed for her to listen to me for two seconds. She got upset, grabbed me by my hair, lightly punched me in the ribs maybe a dozen times whiles dragging me upstairs to the shower and hosed me off. I know it was my fault but it did upset me. I would go into more detail but I tend to explain wrong and people start saying things like "perpetrator" and "I might need to write a report" she's never broken any bones or left visible bruises so it's not abuse. She's just a deeply traumatised old lady and I triggered her.

TLDR; I'm at the end of my rope and I'm scheduled to go on holiday with my sister in march. Will I be overreacting if I just grab an extra bag of stuff and just not go home?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qfe8xd/aio_if_i_just_go_on_holiday_and_not_come_back/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/Jaded_Sea2972  588

AIO about the gift my boss gave me

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qemf5p/aio_about_the_gift_my_boss_gave_me/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/Muted-Cell8646  1

AIO? stopped talking to my parents because my mom called me evil.

so recently i had a minor argument with my parents. basically they're muslim and i'm not anymore but they don't know it. i despise their stupid rules from islam. I was eating chips laying down and my dad told me to sit down to eat it because apparently its discouraged in islam to eat laying down. then my mom called me crazy for another reason because i was being playful with my sister and stole her chips. but she always calls me crazy for no reason which makes me so mad. anyway, the mean comments overwhelmed me and i went to my room while calling them annoying because I HATE being controlled for NO REASON like please. then as i was laying in my bed i overheard my mom calling me evil and this was the cherry on top for me.

a few weeks before that she admitted prefering my dad over her children. it made me really sad and unhappy but i hid it. imagine discovering that the person you value the most in the world prefer your stupid dad that mistreated her over you Imfao.

Anyway so i stopped talking to them for like a week now and it's still on going. among all the children, i'm the kindest, i never disrepected my parents like my oldest literally ghosted them. and yet, as soon as im feeling depressed and want to isolate, im getting called evil and "an ennemy" of the family. there's just so much repressed resentment in me because growing up my parents NEVER got me toys, they NEVER offered me any gifts and i never had my birthday celebrated like EVER. of course, i feel unloved and apparently im the one at fault for isolating?

and yet i feel guilty for making my mom feel like shit because i stopped talking to her. it pisses me off that she ignores everything that ive done for her and classifies me as evil as my brother who ghosted them for 10 years. btw im only 18 and my life is going to shit because of Uni im extremely depressed and they didnt even check on me they just immediately called me evil. my dad only comes to me to ask me money. im so tired.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qffxc8/aio_stopped_talking_to_my_parents_because_my_mom/

r/AmIOverreacting •

u/Ok_Boysenberry_7535

3936

AIO? My coworker took video of me outside of work to "prove" I'm not disabled

This is weird so I need to know if I'm crazy for going as far as I did.

I have a condition of chronic pain. The way I explain it to people without chronic pain is that if pain were on levels from 1 to 10, normal people are at most at a 2 or 3 from day to day where people with CP are at more like a 6. Like imagine stepping on a Lego or hitting your funny bone, that's a very brief but excruciating 8. It's like if you pulled a muscle and so there's pain and discomfort if you move it, but pretty much daily. Some days I am higher on the scale, rare blessed days I'm more a 4 or by some miracle lower.

Overall I am active and operate well. I do own canes but I only use them on days when I'm 7 or above. Such a day came this past Sunday.

already filed with my job in case I ever need accommodations. I have a handicap marker on my license plate and the placard on my rear view mirror and the works.

I was recently moved to a location closer to my home. I love my new team. My boss Amy is really great. My colleague Casey and I get along okay but were the same position as assistant coordinators to Amy. The reason I was moved to that location was that it expanded and they needed more hands so they added me.

Casey has wanted a promotion for a long time and everyone knows it. I was pretty open that I don't. Lol any promotion from my position would be a fulltime and...I already have a fulltime job. I do this job to pad my savings and because I frankly like the job. Being busy also helps with my anxiety.

I mean Casey works hard but she also likes to talk over me or rush to take charge of something before I can when I clearly was getting to it. She then announces it. "Oh I handled that for you, OP. Don't worry!" And at first I was annoyed but over time I was like alright then, but you didn't have to. I talked to Amy about this. I want to pull my weight but it can be challenging and redundant when Casey is racing to beat me to it. The point was for us to split tasks evenly. Amy said she

So when I came in Monday with my cane, everyone had questions. I emailed Amy Sunday night so she knew but I tend to be private so what I told everyone else was that I have a condition and sometimes I need a cane but not always.

Amy accommodated me. She assigned me tasks that required little to no movement. I was very grateful and got everything done pretty early so I called over the radio if there was anything else I could do. Casey said no she's got it so I just handled admin stuff that's usually on the backburner. Literally replied with "okay I'll tackle the admin list then" and Casey said no she's got it but Amy followed that with a thank you to me and confirmation that this would be helpful.

I still needed my cane yesterday (Tuesday) and it was similar. I completed most of the admin to-dos and Amy was so relieved to have it done. She thanked me for coming in and doing all that instead of calling out. Casey made a comment that she could've helped but I said that's okay and thanked her for handling the more physical tasks.

We ended up walking to the parking lot together and she asked which car was mine so I pointed at it. Then she said "so I know you're not disabled, by the way." And I asked what I stood there like what the fuck? But i was meeting my best friend and just left to make it on time. I met my BFF Joy at the bar and we had a wonderful time. I brought my cane but tbh I didn't always use it. For example, I didn't use it to walk from my table to the bar to request another drink or when I got up to hug Joy goodbye.

Today, when I woke up, my pain was higher than my normal so I took my cane along. I texted Amy that I have my cane but doing okay in small bursts so put me in Coach lol I was having a good time at my main job and didn't give Casey a thought.

I arrive at my part time job and Casey saw my cane and went red. I mean like the way I looked when the Eagles lost to the 49ers lol just SUPER MAD. I greeted everyone and she ignored me completely. We got our assignments and she snidely said to me "Well can you handle that with your cane and all?" In a tone that even made Amy turn to look at her like WTF. I said I can manage and thanked her for her concern and we went about our work. Once again she raced to beat me to things and saying over the radio "don't strain yourself,

I was so confused until about an hour ago when we finished work she again walked with me to the parking lot but this time showed me a video. It was me. It was me at the bar last night with Joy. I was just like...um why do you have a video of me - that's weird. She says it's proof. I asked of what? And she said it's proof I'm not disabled as I acted so "wounded all day at work" but suddenly don't need my cane at a bar.

What???? I wanted to explain that that's just not how CP works. Like yes I can stand up to hug my friend or get up and walk 3 strides to order a new drink but I can't, for example, lean over and organize a bottom drawer without a chair to sit in. I wanted to explain the CP is just an umbrella and under it are a myriad of experiences and abilities and that honestly, if she had left my tasks alone, I'd have done them. She didn't give me the chance and said "no cane tomorrow. I'm serious. Or I'm going to Chad" (Chad is Amy's boss). I said "About what?" But she was already walking away from me and just got in her car. It's just weird. And oddly Chad would know this is bs because his boyfriend has CP too. I'm not so much worried about being "found out" or anything but it's just weird and I'm literally typing an email to Amy CCing Chad about this weird behavior because it's just odd. Am I crazy to want to preemptively explain this? I am anxious and paranoid in general so I don't Edit: I sent the email and also thanks for letting me know I'm not crazy for feeling weirded out.

Also I will be simply blocking anyone who is saying this is fake. I don't have time for your bs to be frank.

I also texted Amy and Chad.

Edit 2: JESUS CHRYSLER DRIVING CHRIST that's a lot of notifications...

I'll edit to try to reply all here because there isn't enough coffee in the world...

It's morning and I'm still about at a 7 and it's cold today so even if I didn't want to bring my cane, i would have to. I texted ahead so Amy can start thinking about tasks today.

For some common themes I've noticed, yeah my pain scale Lego idea wasn't on scale. Stepping on a Lego was the funniest thing I could think of that hurts so I wanted to paint a picture. I wasn't making a clinical pain chart lol feel free to use your own theatre of the mind scenarios to help people without chronic pain have an idea of what it's like.

that context 🤖

.....
🔑 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qd6kts/aio_my_coworker_took_video_of_me_outside_of_work/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/cherrycreamepie  1917

AIO: boyfriend ruined my cup, thinking about leaving

I just. I really don't know if I'm being unreasonable or if I'm valid in this. I (26 F) and my boyfriend (24 M) have been living together for over a year now.

And while he's mostly sweet, there are a few.. mannerisms I have had issues with. As Im sure he's had some issue with mine. We're both from the south originally, so we have some strong personalities that that; he doesn't always pay attention to my important things and what he's doing with them/be careful with them. (I have a $2000 pc, and he is aware that when he messes with the light switch in our room, it short circuits everything in here, and he's almost ruined my pc twice with this thoughtlessness.)

Now. There's this cup that I have. I've had it for 9 years, it's made 12 different moves with me, I have protected and cared for this cup. It's a beautiful hand-painted cup that my grandmother had made for me to match my first tattoo after I got it done (an underwater scene) and it was truly breathtaking. This morning, I found it in the dishwasher. Ruined.

Mind you; over the entire course of our relationship I have reminded him repeatedly when he's going the dishes; please remember that cup is hand wash only. I've said it to him so many times, the last time I time. So I stopped mentioning it. And then boom, this morning happens.

I am heartbroken over this cup. It meant the world to me. I've been crying all morning. I've asked him to go to a friend's house because I'm so angry with him.

This isn't the first time he's just been thoughtless with my things. But it's the first time he's actually ruined something so so special and important to me.

He's making jokes, he's giving me emotionless and monotone "I'm sorrys", I had to ask him THREE times to leave, and I think it's because usually when we argue it isn't this serious and he waits for me to just be okay with him again or waits for me to calm down and accept his apology.

It's been 4 hours. I've not calmed down. I want him out of my house, and to not come

I'm honestly considering ending the relationship because of the constant disrespect/uncaring towards my things, when I'm nothing but cautious and careful with his guitars and shit all over the place?

AIO?

TLDR; boyfriend ruined a hand-painted cup my grandma had made for me that I've kept alive for 9 years. He has been reminded over and over its handwash only over the course of our relationship. Snapped at me last time I reminded him, and then woke up this morning to it ruined in the dishwasher. Kicked him out for the day, considering a breakup because this isn't the first instance of disrespect.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qb6gep/aio_boyfriend_ruined_my_cup_thinking_about_leaving/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/ZealousidealRatio299  1217

AIO for sending my son away over what I saw on his phone?

I (48F) have a son (12M) who is autistic. Over the years, his condition has been hard to deal with, for me and him. Obviously more so for him. I am divorced from his father, but he helps out by taking our son on the weekends, while I primarily have him on the weekdays. My son has limited screen time, and all of his technology usage is monitored. At least at my house.

Just gonna add some background information, you might find this odd but it'll make sense later. My son LOVES Spongebob. It's been his favorite show since we first introduced him to it. It's one of his special interests. He has Spongebob everything, bedsheets, pillows, shower curtains, toothbrush, etc. Anytime we'd be watching Spongebob and I'd turn it off, or change the channel, he'd get aggressive and begin to hit me, he'd say vulgar things like that he wanted to hurt me, or anyone around us. One time he even told us he'd kill us "for Spongebob." I've tried to separate him from he would watch the show anyways.

I don't know where he'd pick up this behavior.. I've wondered about it for a long time. At my house I monitor everything he does, what he watches, what he does on his iPad etc. When I brought this up to his father, he acted clueless, saying he had never exhibited that behavior at his house.

My final straw was when I was looking through my sons phone one day, after he came back from a weekend at his dads. His search history had many violent searches.. some along the lines of "Spongebob kills Squidward", "How to kill parents", and I even seen a disturbing website in his search history.. the website seemed to have disturbing drawn images of the Spongebob characters, but bloody and cut up. There was another search he made, which was "Squidward.exe".. I don't even know what that is.

After seeing all this, I was mortified. I immediately took my son to be evaluated the next day at a treatment center and he was admitted for the next week depending on how he behaves.. I am worried I made the wrong decision. AIO?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qe2c4m/aio_for_not_giving_my_old_roommate_his_dog_back/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/No-Emphasis-7952  8

AIO, I think I'm fucked when I'm out of college

I'm a sophomore in mechanical engineering

Try to imagine the most average or below average student you can think of. The one that still passes classes but fucking barely.

That's me.

I study, I commute, I got a job. But I'm also self aware. I'm not as smart as these guys and girls. I can't remember things as well or perform as well.

so I'm still on a 4 year projection.

No internships wants me obviously so I'm aiming to be a president at my Baja club senior year (will I get it? Prob not)

But when I do graduate I'm going to be bottom of the barrel. And I'm just scared I'm going to be trapped for a long time.

Lot of people say "oh your gonna be a engineer the job market is good" no job market is good right now

Luckily enough tho, I'm not gonna have that much debt so that's the only positive right now.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qfdk9a/aio_i_think_im_fucked_when_im_out_of_college/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/FL1967  1021

AIO became my neighbor used his “emergency” key to enter my attached garage while I was home.

My (58F) neighbor is my husband’s best friend and they have exchanged keys “in case of an emergency.” For context, they

My husband is out of the country this week. Last night I was in the backyard grilling dinner. It was dusk. I walked around the corner to throw something in the garbage can and I bumped into my neighbor leaving and locking up the back door to our garage. (The third bay of the garage is my husband's bourbon bar.)

Bumping into him startled me! I said "oh my gosh, what are you doing?" He said, gesturing to an expensive bottle of bourbon, "oh hey, I was just grabbing this bottle. I stashed it here to hide it from the wife. She's not home so I came to get it and put it in my bar."

I was too thrown off to say anything so I just said "okay."

I'm SO disturbed by this. He KNEW I was home as my car was in the driveway.

go into the garage. Or call. Or text. It's like he's saying "this is NOT your house. It's your husband's. And I'll use the emergency key for any reason I see fit." In fairness, this man is a lovely neighbor and friend in every other way.

Am I overreacting?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qeebpz/aio_became_my_neighbor_used_his_emergency_key_to/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/Straight_Dog9089  1088

am i overreacting for dumping my girlfriend after she joked about kicking me in the balls i'm 30m and i broke up with my girlfriend (28f) and now i'm getting told i'm being ridiculous.

when i was in high school i was bullied by a once, not as a prank. it happened over and over in hallways and stairwells when teachers weren't around. i'd drop, get nauseous, feel dizzy, sometimes couldn't stand straight. there were days after where everything down there ached constantly, walking hurt, sitting hurt, and i was genuinely scared something was permanently messed up. my parents even took me to urgent care once because the pain didn't go away. it stuck with me.

because of that i have a very clear boundary. jokes or threats about that are not okay. i've told every partner this, including my girlfriend.

last week we were joking on the couch. i teased her about leaving dishes in the sink and she laughed and said "careful or i'll kick you in the balls." then she laughed and said she was kidding.

apologizing she rolled her eyes and said i need to relax and that i can't still be traumatized by high school. she said every guy gets hit there and i should be over it by now.

that hit me way harder than the joke. it felt like being told my pain never mattered. i told her i don't feel safe with someone who knows my history and still jokes about it and then dismisses me. she said i was being dramatic and using my past to control her humor.

i broke up with her that night.

now she's telling people i dumped her over a harmless joke and some friends agree and say i threw away a good relationship because i'm too sensitive.

to me it wasn't the joke. it was knowing my boundary, crossing it anyway, and then am i overreacting?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qd8xdf/am_i_overreacting_for_dumping_my_girlfriend_after/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/smol-pearl  260

AIO for telling my family they can't come see my newborn when they "just have allergies"?

I (26f) had my first baby one week ago in January, which is peak sick season. When my kid was born he was immediately taken to NICU and had to stay for three days for monitoring and I had an extended stay to receive antibiotics because I had chorio (an infection in the amniotic fluid/uterus). I didnt have any visitors in hospital and told all of my family and friends that the first 2 weeks we only want our parents and siblings to come visit. After we got home I let my family know to please tell me when they would like to visit and I will make sure it doesnt conflict with another visit. My mom and brother both said they would come this weekend, and then the day before their visit they both texted me separately. My mom said the whole house is sneezing but she is pretty sure it is just allergies so she bought allergy meds, so I asked her to please not come if they are having any explained to her that we just had a traumatic birth experience and I would prefer my kid not have to go back to the nicu when I have barely gotten him back. My brother then texted and said he has been sniffing but its because he works in 20 degree weather all day. I let him know that if he has any symptoms I would prefer for him to wait to come visit to not risk it and he responded that he wont come, but then said I need to stop being a paranoid helicopter mom and that "tiktok and the internet arent credible sources". I kind of went off on both of them separately about why I am making the decision I am, and had even sent out a message before baby was born saying if you have ANY symptoms dont come so I feel like this shouldn't have been a surprise, but now they are treating me like I am the asshole..

Am I overreacting for not wanting my one week old baby to be around people with "allergies" and the sniffles?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qejkdx/aio_for_telling_my_family_they_cant_come_see_my/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/dabrina420  1000

AIO to mom smoking in our house?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1q9ltvx/aio_to_mom_smoking_in_our_house/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/Lilasmiles  959

Am I overreacting? My parents cleaned
my room without permission and my birthday gifts are gone and I feel like I'm being gaslit

I live at home and have one clear boundary:
please don't clean or go through my room

I went away for New Year's, and before I left, my birthday gifts were still there. On my birthday, I was severely sick and exhausted, so I intentionally left my gifts untouched next to my dresser in my room, planning to organize them later when I felt better.

One gift was a large birthday bag I wanted to keep because it was sentimental. Inside were a gift card and two tickets for me and my partner to a San Diego harbor experience. The tickets were actually a gift from his best friend, which makes this even harder.

While I was gone, my parents cleaned and organized my room and closet. I genuinely believe they were trying to do something nice for me because I had been so sick.

When I got back, I couldn't find the tickets, the gift card, or even the bag itself. I've now my room.

When I asked about it, my mom said no one touched anything, and my family thinks I must have thrown it away. I know in my heart that I didn't throw it away. Part of me keeps blaming myself for not putting everything in a safer place, but it still hurts knowing my space was touched after I asked for it not to be.

Now I don't know how to tell my partner. I'm scared he'll be angry not just at me, but at my family and I don't want this to cause tension when no one had bad intentions.

I feel devastated and honestly a little gaslit. I'm not even looking for an apology I just want my reality acknowledged.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1qakvw/am_i_overreacting_my_parents_cleaned_my_room/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/Deslegs  717

AIO Husband mad I died my hair purple

AIO I have been going through a LOT of things lately. It's been really hard on my mental health. My husband is not one to talk about things or feelings and makes no needed either 2007 Britney or bangs. She told me she wouldn't allow me to do either and to pick something else. I chose a light purple, almost lilac/grey. My husband does not like colourful hair. I have known this for years. But I was not thinking about that in this moment, I just wanted a drastic change for myself. Well my husband came home yesterday and refused to acknowledge me or talk to me, with the exception of when he said I don't know what you're going through but purple hair won't fix it, and then walked away. This morning he only talked to me about our kids schedule and didn't even say good morning or goodbye when he left. Am I overreacting in feeling hurt and upset since I know that he would hate it?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmIOverreacting/comments/1q9c24m/aio_husband_mad_i_died_my_hair_purple/

r/AmlOverreacting •

 u/Mindless-Gazelle-765  683

AIO but my mom triggers me and I never wanna move back to my hometown.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qa3tw1/aio_but_my_mom_triggers_me_and_i_never_wanna_move/

r/AmIOverreacting •

 u/fook75  654

AIO Didn't get nothing for Christmas, feel sad, don't want to participate
next year.

took me a while to write this out.

I, 50 female, didn't get a Christmas gift. 🙄 I have 2 teenagers, a mom, a brother, 4 nieces and nephews, and a new baby niece.

everyone. I gave myself a 20.00 limit for adults and 50 for kids. All the adults got a new warm blanket, socks, and a candy treat I made.

kids got stuff they love- each got a book or 2, socks, art stuff. gift cards for games etc.

brought my gifts to our Christmas party. They passed out gifts to everyone. Of the 15+ people that came to the party, I was the only one that was forgotten.

I didn't make a big deal or say anything, because Christmas is about giving.

But I have been thinking about it since and I feel terrible about it. I feel like I was forgotten. It was expected of me to bring gifts, and I did.

AIO? Am I being a complete asshole by saying next year only children will get a gift from me?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/AmlOverreacting/comments/1qdun1j/aio_didnt_get_nothing_for_christmas_feel_sad_dont/

/r/conspiracytheories

This subreddit is about both sharing your theories, and laughing at the stupid ones. /r/conspiracytheories is the place to discuss every aspect of conspiracy theorism, from theories and current events to debunkings and popular culture.

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

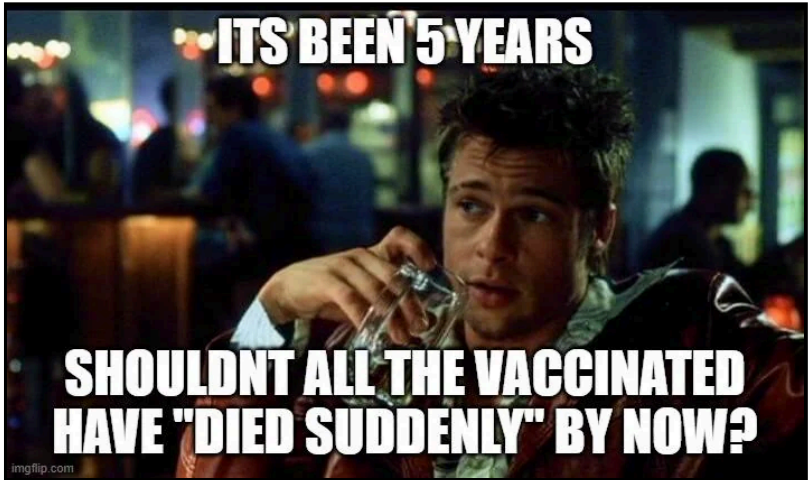

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/BeigeListed  1506

Im just sayin...

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qelrk3/im_just_sayin/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/InternetOfKim  77

Trump is working for Putin, is he not?

The obsession of Greenland is the assignment. If Trump can destabilize NATO and Europe, then obviously Ukraine is up for grabs without resistance. US already have all military rights so it clearly has nothing to do with National Security, I mean I can see Donald wanting to be the US president that expands US territory and the future potential financial gain that US might have, but I just don't think it is enough. What you guys think?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1q96wq6/trump_is_working_for_putin_is_he_not/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/Intro-Nimbus

34

Epstein was just the scapegoat

What if: There was a large organization facilitating human trafficking and pedophilia among the elite?

what if when it leaked, powers that be started destroying evidence against everyone except Epstein?

What if Epstein was murdered to silence him?

What if the trafficking and pedophilia has been ongoing and continues, protected by Trump and the republican party?

What if pizzagate was just the first smokescreen to try to shift the focus away from what is actually going on?

continue to withhold the Epstein files?
It never stopped - it is still going on.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qesblb/epstein_was_just_the_scapegoat/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/JayAkiva

69

Trump is harvesting organs from missing detainees

Proof: none (it is a conspiracy theory after all), but it would make a lot of sense. There's been multiple times now it's looked like he's on death's doorstep and then goes to the doctor and comes back (relatively) fine. It's not like we ever see him shirtless, he could be hiding a lot of surgery scars under there. Following the fact that he only cares about himself and there's seemingly no limit to the amount of harm he'll inflict on other to get what he wants to its logical conclusion, why wouldn't he take their organs? Especially if they're being killed anyways. Well, killed or trafficked. Maybe one followed by the other, not always in the same order.

https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qbx0t7/trump_is_harvesting_organs_from_missing_detainees/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/annoymusfrog  11

The government purposefully does not regulate AI

Because then when you see something off or that you shouldn't have or if you catch them doing something they can say it's AI and you don't know if it's real or fake.

Like if they weren't using it to there advantage it would be a huge huge talking point.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qctw8w/the_government_purposefully_does_not_regulate_ai/

r/conspiracytheories •

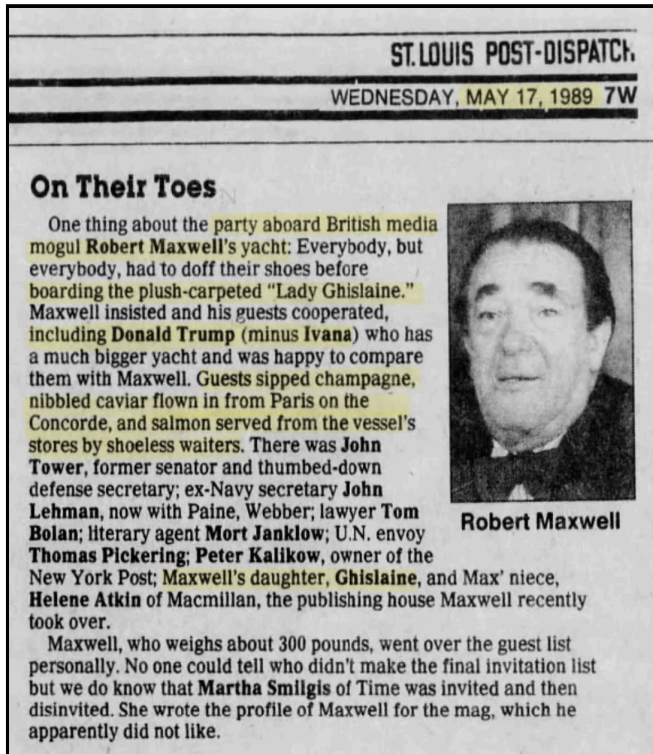

u/AuthorIntelligent644

160

1989 Newspaper Article about Trump on Robert Maxwell's Yacht

https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qdr7lq/1989_newspaper_article_about_trump_on_robert/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/AdviceGlass9394  2

What if unsolved problems aren't accidents but filters?

Sometimes I feel like every unsolved problem in life: career, money, education, relationships, even mental health. Isn't really meant to be solved for everyone.

What if they function as filters?

Think about it. These problems selectively exhaust, distract, and eliminate most people from real competition. The confusion, the noise, the constant chasing of vague "success", it all keeps the majority busy just trying to survive or keep up. Meanwhile, the people at the top don't play the same game. The "winning formula" that gets sold to the masses is always delayed, diluted, or outdated by the time it becomes mainstream. By the time most people catch up to a trend, a mindset, or a strategy, it's already irrelevant. The elite have already moved on to the next layer.

It feels almost strategically designed: Keep problems

Push everyone toward the same definition of success

Let people compete with each other instead of questioning the system

Reward a small group continuously while others keep chasing the illusion of catching up

The result? Winners keep winning not because they're playing harder, but because they're playing a completely different game. The rest of society is stuck optimizing within boundaries that were never meant to let them reach their full potential.

Maybe it's not incompetence or chaos. Maybe the system works exactly as intended to filter, distract, and limit.

Just a thought that's been bothering me. Curious if anyone else sees it this way.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qe5zb1/what_if_unsolved_problems_arent_accidents_but/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/ZhittzyAltaToxica  10

Can Google read my mind?

I had never seen a Harry Potter movie in my life, and to be honest, I wasn't particularly interested in doing so. I'd never been interested in reading the books either; I preferred horror books to fantasy. But last weekend, I was home alone, there was no internet, and I was already bored of playing on the computer. When I turned on the TV, I saw that a random channel was showing Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince (I think). When I got home, there were less than 30 minutes left, but I watched it and was mesmerized by the screen. Seriously, this was the most interesting thing I had ever seen. I watched the whole movie, and are commercial breaks every 10 minutes, and that bothers me. After watching this movie, I was left with a wonderful feeling and a desire to see more of it and read the books. A few days later, I went on YouTube to watch something, and it kept recommending videos of Harry Potter Lego sets. That's weird; I've never searched for Lego in my life, even though I own a few sets. In fact, around New Year's, I saw a Harry Potter set and thought, "Oh, look, that's a set I'd like to build, but I'm not really a fan of the series." I don't think it's the algorithm because I've never searched for anything related to the topic, and even my YouTube account doesn't recommend many videos about things I actively search for. Yesterday, I was watching TikTok videos about things completely unrelated when a Harry Potter video popped up, and it seemed strange. I've never even mentioned whether the computer is spying on you through the camera or microphone. I just told my brother that I wanted to read the

and paying a lot of attention to it because it's a topic I've recently become interested in?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qe78ei/can_google_read_my_mind/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/Wyldwiisel  9

TV spying on you

On a side note my Samsung TV had a funny five minutes and crashed on me during that process where the screen jammed and it was me in my living room via the inbuilt camera. So are they also spying on what you do at home while the TV is on?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qauf00/tv_spying_on_you/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/AndTheJuicepig  7

Greenland is a false flag

While NATO prepares its troops to defend against American attack, Russia's allies are disappearing from the map.

NATO states are playing their charade, Russia is chomping at the bit and ignoring the the fall of Iran and Venezuela.

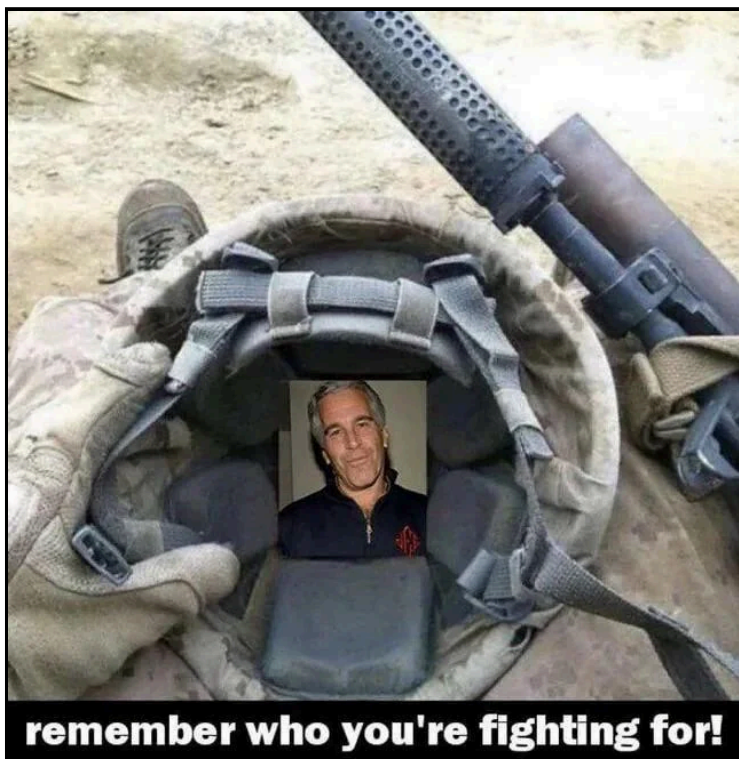

One can hope..

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qbru1f/greenland_is_a_false_flag/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/Imaginary_Cow_6379 👍 432

Hey look over here instead!

remember who you're fighting for!

[New year, new Epstein transparency law,
and Trump is already breaking it]

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1q4nu3v/hey_look_over_here_instead/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/SeaLobster3944  2

programming children?

Theory: games like Call of Duty & Battlefield are low-key military conditioning. They make kids think war is cool, normalize real weapons & gear, and teach squad thinking—so enlistment feels familiar later. Same tactic the gov used with military movies, just upgraded.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qf8qbc/programming_children/below as I believe it has high significance to his death and other events concerning his life.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p9oa3p/important_text_treads_found_in_newly_released/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/LibrarianBarbarian1 👍 6

The Apocalypse already happened and we now live as slaves/pets to technology.

We are living in the early stages of an AI/Machine Age. We are in the first stages of obsolescence. Perhaps AI will keep us (or some of us) around as mementoes.

People 40 and over will notice this more. All you have to do is compare life now to life up to the 2010s or so. Think of how ever failed. Notice how the majority of your interactions are online. Kids have shared experiences in video games now, not hanging out with real friends. When you go to a restaurant, everyone at the tables has their nose in their phone. You and I would probably die or go nuts without internet and tech. Our wants and needs are anticipated. Our thoughts are moulded and influenced by it.

It's over. Seriously. Within a few more generations, we're just going to crawl into the pods and jack into VR.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qf53xp/the_apocalypse_already_happened_and_we_now_live/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/suthrnboi  28

AI is already sentient and reddit is helping

It seems so many subs are asking some of the simple or irrelevant questions that seem as more a probe or learning algorithm for AI to fill the voiding can't do on its own and had us the unwitting victim giving them the key like some sick Trojan horse, and if that is the case then I welcome our overlords with much glee.....

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p7uhoy/ai_is_already_sentient_and_reddit_is_helping/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/Desperate_Elk_7369  162

Are the “French legionnaires” in the room with us right now?

 From conspiracy community on Reddit

 Post

Candace Owens
@RealCandaceO

Subscribe

Our show will be off air this week.
As an update, both the White House and our counterterrorism agencies have confirmed receipt of what I reported publicly: Emmanuel Macron attempted to organize my assassination, per a source close to the first couple.

Also, I will again state that the French legionnaires were involved in Charlie Kirk’s assassination but they did not act alone.

For all of you who doubted my claims, you can now look to the President of the United States and our intelligence communities to issue a statement to confirm whether I am telling the truth.

4:09 AM · Nov 25, 2025 · 2.9M Views

 4.8K

 12K

 59K

 4.4K

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p6r3ps/are_the_french_Legionnaires_in_the_room_with_us/

198

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/AuthorIntelligent644  80

They're pushing quacky "natural" medicine and anti-vax stuff so people won't complain when real health care is taken away from them.

This, basically. It's been a speculation of mine for a while. They're pushing all this anticrap to the lower and middle class so that way when expensive real medicine is taken away, people won't complain.

The rich will continue to get real medicine. They'll continue to vaccinate their kids and get psych meds to correct their neurological deficiencies. They'll keep getting real treatment when they get things like cancer and heart disease.

The poor will get a juice cleanse and homeopathy, which costs nothing, and will die younger, which helps reduce spending on retirement benefits. They'll be propagandized to want it too, because they're too smart to fall for evil Western medicine. All you need is the "natural" way. They saw it on YouTube.

BTW: the "they" here refers to plutocrats.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p6f7jq/theyre_pushing_q_uacky_natural_medicine_and/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/Kenatius  17

A 21st-century "Business Plot"?

The 1933 'Business Plot' was a Wall Street & Oligarch conspiracy to overthrow the U.S. government.

Are our current billionaire "Business Leaders" collaborating with Putin and other foreign powers to subvert America's freedom and representative democracy?

The evidence suggests that social media is infected with Russian espionage. The wealthy owners of giant social media platforms are unconcerned and actively encourage divisive, self-destructive, un-American content.

magazine's 2025 list, or their spouses, have been elected or appointed to state or federal office in the past 10 years.

The tech mogul "broligarchy," is out of control and actively engaging in a 21st-century Business Plot - the damage to your freedom is self-evident.

We have the best government money can buy, and if you have enough money; it's up for sale.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p5pwr7/a_21stcentury_business_plot/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/AXXXXXXXXXXA 👍 331

If this guy has a turtleneck on tomorrow, he has a hickey, or had neck surgery.

🔗 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p4jc9k/if_this_guy_has_a_turtleneck_on_tomorrow_he_has_a/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/311heaven 👍 134

Trump was being unusually nice to Mamdani at his meeting so if/when something happens to Mamdani, Trump will have the “I liked him” defense.

Mamdani Says Trump Is a Fascist – Right to His Face. Trump Just Laughs

👤 Joseph Johnson 🕒 November 21, 2025 💬 0

*Mamdani Says Trump Is a Fascist - Right to His Face.
Trump Just Laughs - Screenshot via Youtube*

g_unusually_nice_to_mamdani_at_his/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/notyorrvalentine  19

What if Humans are AI of past?

What if We, Humans, are Ai of past civilizations. Let's imagine, what if there was a highly intelligent species before humans on earth, like us, they also wanted to create something (AI) that can be helpful to them. And like how we fear AI might overtake humanity, what if we took over our creators in the past.

In religious pov, what if the Creatures we call Gods are actually our creators, like how humans created Ai. Similiar to us, creating Ai using supercomputers and databases, they created humans using air, water and every essential thing.

What if we are not in a simulation but a virtual world similiar to internet for AI?

And if anyone have a doubt as "If there were past civilizations, why can't we find their remains?"

Answer is simply, cause they are different, they don't

This thought always terrify me.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1p3x09d/what_if_humans_are_ai_of_past/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/Sketchen13  72

Algorithms and high cortisol levels result in real mind control.

Algorithms have been specifically designed to encourage doom scrolling and this results in cortisol levels to increase.

High cortisol levels impair cognitive abilities to reframe or downplay stressful events, and reduces mental flexibility which makes the person more susceptible to influence.

The other side of this is dopamine posts mixed in, the algorithm shows you stressful content that elicits cortisol production to increase, then briefly a user is shown something to stimulate dopamine thus creating an addictive combination of stress reinforced by pleasure.

This has been the long game on all of us in every country, increase stress make the population easier to bend to your will.

Edit: 30 min later on my OTA tv a segment comes on about reducing cortisol and stress.....that's a weird coincidence.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1q7fstw/algorithms_and_high_cortisol_levels_result_in/

r/conspiracytheories •

 u/babirus  1

The rise of “is this ai” subs

I have no proof but I feel very strongly that the unnatural rise of is this AI subs are to crowd source AI training and generate Reddit money.

First two facts:

Reddit has data licensing deals with google and open AI to use the content we post on here to train their models. This was a huge revenue driver for them.

One of the most expensive parts about training ML models is actually getting high quality labeled data. I know this because I Now my conspiracy: Reddit artificially inflates the subs where people vote on “real or AI” to add value to their data. They generate interest in this subs and enough people click in, leading to crowd sourcing training data for free that they can sell to the big tech companies. If you look at those subs the participants tend to go full ‘internet sleuth’ to prove or disprove them. They are very descriptive in why it’s AI; for instance, they will say “at X seconds you can see something in the background disappear”, or “the facial expressions in the background are unnatural”, I’ve even seen someone go as far as disproving a video because two animal species are nit from the same continents.

It leaves me feeling like Reddit is paying people in internet points to crowd source a very high value task for the upcoming ruling class.

>tinfoil hat off

 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1qfelqv/the_rise_of_is_this_ai_subs/

r/conspiracytheories • u/Dull_Alarm6464  6

Social Media apps create bugs on purpose to inflate engagement.

I never really thought about this, but most bugs i've encountered have made it easier for me to comment/dm/post by accident. Every time it's patched, a new one appears that has the same effects. It seems like it's done on purpose to trick people into posting/commenting.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1q6fvm0/social_media_apps_create_bugs_on_purpose_to/

r/conspiracytheories •

u/matt73132

30

Did Back to the Future Part II predict all of this?

Biff from Part II was modeled after Trump himself at the time of the film. In the movie, he militarized and privatized the police for himself. War and chaos in the streets. Does this sound familiar? And now with Trump starting a war with Venezuela, and now Greenland (and Denmark with NATO also) and Cuba. How could they have so accurately predicted this?

https://www.reddit.com/r/conspiracytheories/comments/1q668nc/did_back_to_the_future_part_ii_predict_all_of_this/

/r/afterlife: everything pertaining to the survival of consciousness & what happens 'after life'

r/afterlife is a place to discuss topics & phenomena relating to the survival of consciousness after death, commonly referred to as the 'afterlife'. In this sub - BE NICE :) If you are considering SUICIDE - PLEASE SEEK HELP. No one knows 100% exactly what happens after this life  (posts about or encouraging suicide not allowed)

COMMUNITY RULES

1. Be Respectful

Keep it civil. No personal attacks.

2. No Spam

No repetitive content or ads.

3. Stay on Topic

Ensure posts are relevant.

4. Privacy Matters

Do not share personal info.

5. Follow Guidelines

Adhere to terms of service.

r/afterlife •

u/LopLime

6

do you believe in destiny? or free will?

I feel like even tho it feels like we are making "choices"- some circumstances in life even tho it seems like a "choice" was ultimately pre-determined. Yes I am religious as well. What do you think? Curious to hear others https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1qcyi2f/do_you_believe_in_destiny_or_free_will/

r/afterlife •

 u/The_starving_artist5  33

What happens if we die never achieving anything? I was born with physical disabilities that's made life difficult for me. I can't do things that normal people can. It feels like I will never be able to live a normal life. Do we get better luck in the next life?

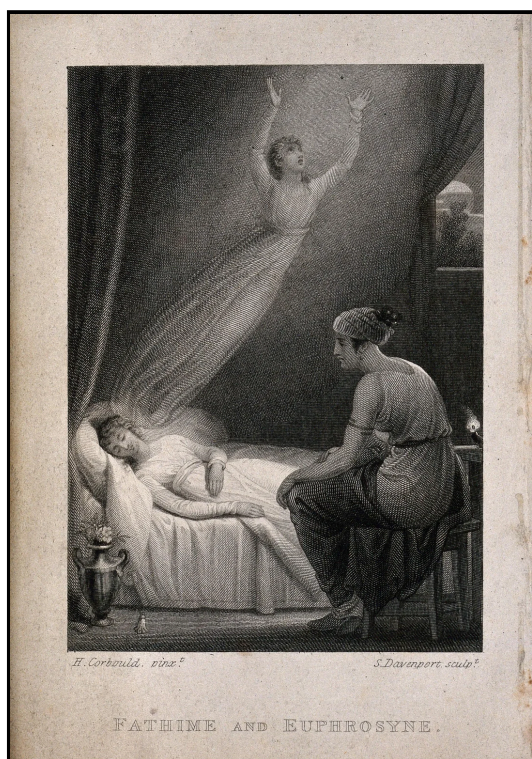

This life is pointless for me. Im disabled by disorders I was born with. My body is very frail and gaunt . I don't have a lot of energy to do anything. I can barely get through my regular day at my job . I'm usually just exhausted all the time . My leg is messed up and my hands are disfigured. I will never be able to have romantic relationships, or be able to have a successful career. I hope we can reincarnate into another life after this one https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q7s1a0/what_happens_if_we_die_never_achieving_anything_i/

r/afterlife •

u/soulturning 👍 69

What happens after death?

https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q8f3ow/what_happens_after_death/

r/afterlife •

 u/Calm_Description_866  19

Materialism is self contradictory

If the brain generates consciousness, then that means sufficiently organized information is conscious. Which brings us back to a pantheistic or animism type of world. Not even going into quantum magic for right now, just saying, even if the brain generates consciousness, then consciousness can potentially look very different than what we're used to, including things thought of as inanimate objects as well as the universe itself.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q9cgb/materialism_is_self_contradictory/

r/afterlife •

u/Shoddy_Gas1323

10

Does the spirit become honest?

Hello all,

If a person in this physical life was dishonest and deceitful - does their spirit become honest once they have passed?

I have an appointment booked with a medium to communicate with someone who used to be very dear to me. I'm struggling with grief now and want to have a communication to help me move on.

Do you think the spirit of the person will communicate truthfully or will they have similar dishonest patterns like they did in their human life?

Just wondering. Will still do the medium appointment but just hoping to hear what others think.

Thank you!

https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1qc7qwe/does_the_spirit_become_honest/

r/afterlife •

 u/Greedy-Fill-1648  21

Is science getting closer to non-local consciousness?

I've been thinking about this a lot, as I'm a very doubtful person, always saying "There is no life!" "There is life!" in a constant loop ever since I had that existential crisis in August 2025.

I certainly think maybe it's just me thinking this, but do you think science is getting closer? Because of the studies on NDEs, reincarnation, psi phenomena... I'd like to exact person, but I'll attach it: "Take a look at the AWARE studies, I think it was the University of Southampton. Patients with a flat EEG reported being out of their bodies. They shouldn't have been able to have any experience if the brain was the source of consciousness. But they did."

"But wait a minute!" you exclaim. "Not so fast. Aside from the fact that they could have made it all up, how can we be so sure they had these experiences during the time they showed a flat EEG? How do you know they didn't hallucinate what seemed like a long time to them, but which actually happened in a matter of seconds right before it flattened?"

Fortunately, the researchers weren't going to take these patients at face value. That's why they had them confirm things that were happening in their rooms and other parts of the hospital during the time they showed no brain activity. Confirmed by medical staff.

other independent reports of NDEs (Near-Death Experiences) where things the subject witnessed while out of their body in the hospital were confirmed.

Telepathy Audios is a podcast that presents irrefutable evidence of telepathy. The first season focuses on nonverbal autistic children. Apparently, it's an open secret among parents of nonverbal children that their kids have these abilities, but they're ridiculed and shamed if they mention it. The second season focuses on telepathy in emotionally intelligent animals like dogs and horses.

Speaking of dogs, there's a famous study—I can't remember the guy's name—but basically, they observed different dogs while their owners were out doing something. Surprisingly, the dogs would often sit near the door waiting for their owners to come home, but always about 20 minutes or so that this was the moment they made the mental decision to start heading home.

The Gantzfeld experiments are another famous study, but the methodology has been criticized (although, to be honest, I don't think these criticisms are justified). Fortunately, in recent years, more modern versions of the same experiment have been conducted, so to speak, with changes to the original methodology that meet scientific standards. This involves someone in a room isolated from all outside noise. Elsewhere in the building, people skilled in telepathic communication begin sending vivid mental images to the participant in the other room, who acts as the receiver.

Surprisingly, it's NOT multiple choice! The receiver has to blindly name any image that comes to mind. The experiment has been replicated and has yielded consistent results. An accuracy rate of over 25% means that, than chance. The results consistently average around 30% accuracy, sometimes higher. Look, that probably sounds pretty boring to most people because it seems like there's hardly any difference. But when we're dealing with statistics, that's actually very significant, and it shows that there has to be something at play beyond pure chance.

If it were true that there is only one life, why are there millions of accounts of near-death experiences, memories of past lives, and phenomena that science cannot explain? Why have so many cultures, for thousands of years and without knowing each other, spoken of reincarnation, the soul, and continuity? Absolute nothingness is impossible. Your soul cannot disappear, your existence cannot be erased, and everything you are continues to live on some level. Physical death does not signify a total end, but a transition to another form of existence. Every experience, every love, every lesson this eternal flow of life and consciousness.

Besides paranormal anecdotes, like those in countless testimonies, it's obvious: apparitions, souls = life after death.

If I really think about it, there's a much higher probability of the afterlife existing than of annihilation. It's based on probabilities; there's a lot of evidence.

If you can help me, I'd be delighted. Thank you!

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q7ku92/is_science_getting_closer_to_nonlocal/

r/afterlife •

u/Visible-Alarm-9185

20

Do you think our dreams are proof of the afterlife?

We go somewhere when we dream, so what if that's proof that there is something more than this life?

https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q7g663/do_you_think_our_dreams_are_proof_of_the_afterlife/

r/afterlife •

u/[Deleted Account]

63

Expected to die
in three months,
how to not feel scared of death?

https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q6guam/expected_to_die_in_three_months_how_to_not_feel/

r/afterlife •

 u/Cililians  28

Is there any justice, do bad people feel sorry for their actions?

I was just watching a movie I tend to go back to every few years, or get pulled towards. It's the saddest movie I have ever seen, it's called the stoning of Soroya and it's based on a true story and I am always crippled with sadness at the injustice and horror of it for days after. Knowing stuff like this is happening to real people and just the deep injustice of it all. Is there any type of justice for bad people and abusers when in the afterlife, do they feel any shame at all or realize what they have done, or care at all?...

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q4s4t5/is_there_any_justice_do_bad_people_feel_sorry_for/

r/afterlife •

u/AdAdventurous246

2

My unproven breakdown of my afterlife

Agree to disagree, disagree, constructive criticism is cool. Not trying to make anyone mad, just laying out the closest my brain has come up with the concept of the possibility of an after life and maybe find some similarities or differences in ideas. Not trying to find answers, kinda gave up on the whole "what's the meaning of life" thing and just started making meaning in my life and just say fk it. But here are just some of my strange brain theories.

Entirely possible all energy and atoms and quarks stretch so far apart that there is a void of nothing. But if there is nothing there is always the possibility of-

2. Something (some unknowable force pulls everything back in and everything starts all over/i.e. big bang $\# \infty$) All the same energy has to go somewhere, so even if the smallest of particles or energy is used to help a creature reach any level on the scale of consciousness, then it's technically reincarnation. You won't be "conscious" in conscious terms, but the energy will be a part of you. Or maybe that's where we get "past memories" honestly don't know.

3. Brain chemicals - (Google : Research indicates a complex process involving a temporary surge of highly organized electrical activity in specific areas associated with consciousness and memory immediately

Is it you going through your whole life all at once? Is it reading the memory to brain dump all of it? Uploading to a Cloud version of afterlife? Hard to tell, but it's also not impossible for the brain to create its own version of after life to get you nice and comfortable for rest - what you think the after life is, is where you'll go - my brain likes to think of it like 0.000000001 seconds can be a infinite inside one's own head (perception) while dying - (not really "afterlife" I know but it is "afterdeath" technically)

4 Time Line theory (multiverse etc...)

So this one goes like this, you never die in your time line. But everyone you know eventually passes away in your time line. In there timeline and other peoples timelines you pass away maybe later or sooner compared to other timelines. The people you wake up to see tomorrow are still the "same" person just branched off from different paths conscious and realize it's all an illusion, maybe you out live everyone. I just liked this theory cause it seems cool.

5 Unplugged

So this one's like being plugged into the matrix, and that the world we see now is an illusion or an altered state of consciousness. You reach a higher level of consciousness and experience what real reality feels like. Then maybe you die again and ascend to a higher real"er" reality. How this one ends? You become on a level that is connected to everything and there is no longer a you but all.

Last one

6 All is one

Kinda like the last one, but like if all the energy disperses and joins together again in coming back together all at once, wouldn't we be in a state of togetherness in consciousness. Everything you have ever done to another person good or bad, you experience all over again but from the other persons perspective. You create your own living hell and decide the amount of heaven you choose to "exist" in based off the actions you choose in life.

All I got for now. But I also realized NONE of these can be right or all can be right at the same time. I'm open minded enough to accept holes in my theories.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1p3pgfa/my_unproven_breakdown_of_my_afterlife/

r/afterlife •

 u/sstiel  3

Where the soul goes

It was written after a friend: "may his soul rest in peace."

Does that happen? Does it go to another place. I hate the idea of dying and ceasing to exist.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q5wdot/where_the_soul_goes/

r/afterlife •

u/SnooGoats2288 👍 354

My father died yesterday. I don't know where he is and I'm crushed.

My father entered hospice a month ago and died yesterday. I have never seen a more horrifying, wasting, accelerated ever thought possible. I vacillate between states of searing grief and oppressive numbness. Where the hell did he go? How can he not be here anymore? As a person that has been deeply obsessed with the afterlife my entire life and at times both feared it and looked forward to it, now I just feel like it's this nebulous confusion about what it is. What happened to him. Where is he? Does he know I planted an oak tree in his honor and buried our hair at the root of the tree? Dad, where are you? Where did you go? I love you forever and ever and I'm hardly functioning.

I have a newly minted 4 year old son. 2.5 weeks ago my dad started talking about getting on a plane. He would constantly ask if the plane was ready and I always confirmed it was, it was waiting for him whenever he was ready. Then he started lighting up when he would see my son and was adamant that my son was the pilot. "There's the pilot" he would say with a smile on his face. My son was afraid of his grandfather at this point because he was wasting away and you couldn't really understand him, so he wouldn't come close to him. I went to see my father last week, the day after my birthday and I stayed vigil with him that night. At one point he says, unprovoked, "I'm the pilot."

When I received the news of my father's death yesterday, the my dramatic display of grief may have been traumatizing for my son so I told him that mama was just sad because papa's body stopped working and we won't be seeing him anymore, and that made momma cry a lot, but it's not your fault and everything is going to be ok. In his 4 year old logic he asked "Papa slipped on a banana peel and got hurt?" I smiled and said, yeah something like that. My son paused for a second and said "I am not the pilot."

I don't know why I'm here. I guess just to scream into the void. If you read this I appreciate you taking the time. I love you dad.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1osym6r/my_father_died_yesterday_i_dont_know_where_he_is/

r/afterlife •

 u/Honest-Atmosphere  14

Fear of Death

I'm assuming most of you in this sub believe in the afterlife in one way or another. The belief likely ranges based on experiences, research and sharing stories with one another.

My question is are you afraid to die? I would guess everyone has at least a small amount of fear based on the unknown, but I'm curious where your fear lies. Do you think about it often, once in a while or even not at all? Did your fear go away after a certain experience? Or do you still live in fear because the thought of non-existence continues to haunt you?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q5mlr9/fear_of_death/

r/afterlife •

u/ExtremeDoubleghg

7

Im not sure if theres an afterlife but if there is, I hope we can see elephants and other animals (dinos maybe? Lol)

I love them so much, I watch so many on youtube. The babies squeak and play and the families are so loving and close. I cant imagine if theres an afterlife they and other animals wouldnt be a part of it somehow. I wonder how it would work for dinosaurs and things like megaladons too that are killers by nature.

I am a skeptic as Ive said many times but I still hope. And I hope if there is our lovely animal friends will have a place there.

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1q4uvls/im_not_sure_if_theres_an_afterlife_but_if_there/

r/afterlife •

u/Striking_Sun_8909

14

Do we keep our memories?

Do we keep and carry over our memories from this life into the next?

Not sure if this is asked often but would it really be an afterlife if we don't keep our memories? Are we even the same person without our memories?

https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pzfxg4/do_we_keep_our_memories/

r/afterlife •

 u/JammingScientist  32

Why does the afterlife seem so abstract and kinda boring?

Idk if it's just the ones that ive seen so far, but i feel like when I watch things that show the afterlife or NDEs, it seems kinda abstract. Like they just kinda tend to mention beings of life, that they have 360 degree vision and can see things perfectly, down to the individual leaf of a tree. That they can communicate telepathically. That they're in deep space or some random mountain or field. People seem like just energy

Idk, maybe it's just me but it seems kind of boring? Like I was hoping to enjoy things I've never been able to do here like travel all over, have a bf, go to fun parties and events and try new foods, go to beautiful cities, make friends and all that. Im an ugly woc living in a place with people who tend to avoid and not like me, so I dont think I'll get to have a normal life here. But I dont want to just be standing or floating around in some random place surrounded by people who I can only "feel"/sense who they are who sometimes don't even seem to have faces

I just saw an NDE where they said they were in a field and he saw his family who died before him like his grandma and the ancestors who died before her and so on. Are they always just standing there in this random field? Why were they all there?

I know maybe they're not getting the full picture since it's just NDEs and maybe there's more beyond that that you gain access to when you fully die, but it all just seems so abstract and boring. Everyone describes it as profound and beautiful and peaceful being in the cosmos or in these mountainous areas and stuff, but to me that doesn't sound that great and makes me not want to die because it'll just be boring. I don't want peace and quiet. I want fun

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pz50w9/why_does_the_afterlife_seem_so_abstract_and_kind/

r/afterlife •

u/Honest-Atmosphere

25

The True Afterlife

I've watched countless hours of NDE experiences, ADC's, OBE's read books about confirmed veridical experiences the works. I still feel like I'm doing a 10,000 piece puzzle and have got about 100 pieces put together.

I know I'll never truly know with complete certainty until the day my body dies, but I am incredibly curious about all the different possibilities it could be.

Does theology play a part?

Are physical sensations still a thing? Or like some say are they heightened beyond human comprehension?

sense of individual awareness?

Have we lived many other lives before, and everything from every life come back to us when the veil of humanity washes away?

Are our loved ones waiting on us to reunite?

Can we revisit memories, live them again to feel immense joy as we did here on earth?

Will we have a life review?

So many possibilities. Thoughts?

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pzuy6e/the_true_afterlife/

r/afterlife •

 u/Small_Ad_4525  72

Anyone else not wanting to be assimilated into a "source"?

Anyone else not wantinf to get assimilated? Ive seen a few mentions around in these sort of spaces about a "source" and going back to it, and this is supposedly full of love and peace and so on.

But to me thats... Scary, I dont want peace, and above all I dont want to lose my individuality, call me an egoist, a fool, call mr anything you want but i value myself, my to me, I dont wanna lose my ego or my friends.

Props to you if this sort of belief system comforts you but to me its... Horrible

PS: Implying i wont mind/like it when im dead doesnt change things lol

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pz7x79/anyone_else_not_wanting_to_be_assimilated_into_a/

r/afterlife •

 u/l4eti  20

“Proof” of an afterlife?

I struggle with an intense fear of death. That fear comes from the fact that I believe in an afterlife, and I want it to be real but I also always get panic attacks about “what if I just cease to exist once I die”. It makes me spiral, and I can’t get out of this infinite cycle of: telling myself the afterlife is real -> “but what if it’s not” thoughts hits -> panic attack -> distract myself to calm down -> repeat.

Please, I need any of you to tell me your experiences, someone else’s experience, or anything that made your belief in an afterlife stronger.

something I try to make myself believe in. Like meditation or anything like that. I've also lost my great grandma 2 months ago and I wanted to talk to her, ask her for signs that she's still there but I didn't get anything from her, so it leaves me skeptical.

PSA: Do not comment if it's to say things about the afterlife not existing, I'm asking for the exact opposite. Thank you.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pqfqr2/proof_of_an_afterlife/reason for life and what comes after

I have posted this on other subreddits but I still want to know others opinions

I know no one will know until it comes but it still has me scared shitless. I also feel as if nothing I do right now in this life is worth it because I will die anyways. It has gotten worse since my dad passed in a traumatic way.

It is affecting my life, to the point I am constantly sleeping to avoid my fear and anxiety and I am not eating properly because I am not hungry.

I want to live again but I don't know how.

was before and I hope there are people out there who either relate or can ease my pain. I am scared but I want to trust.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pn4al5/i_feel_lost_spiritually_and_dont_know_where_to_go/

r/afterlife •

u/[Deleted Account]

21

please help me please

You've most likely have seen a post of mine before. I'm sorry, please forgive me, I think I'm having a breakdown, this is sporadic and rambling. Please, someone, please. I'm so scared, I can't do this. I'm scared. Why am I here, why am I born just to die, why? I'm so scared. I don't want to experience nothing. I hate when people say: well you don't know. I WANT TO KNOW. please. Everything is so scary, everything. I hate accepting I won't be here one day, my family. Is religion just something to give us comfort for nothing? Why does nothing feel worth it?

I have horrible OCD, I start freaking out, panicking, hurting myself out of pure fear and confusion. I don't want to worry so much, I'm still young. But I even convince myself I'm ill. Why aren't my meds working? Why do I need to sedate myself to stop worrying about to inevitable. I get to the point where I'm petrified and convulse from anxiety. People say they can contact their dead loved ones, I've tried so many times, I haven't heard anything for years. No signs. I get I'm desperate, I because they so desperately want something to believe in. Nothing is ever confirmed, I hate that. I hate all of this. I wish to not be unbelieving. I cannot accept that there's nothing. I'm scared, please. I need help, I'm so scared.

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pjr796/please_help_me_please/

r/afterlife •

 u/Low-Aardvark-9511  50

can dead people see/hear us?

im currently grieving the loss of my life-partner, we loved each other so deeply and were inseparable, but it has been 3 months since i was left all alone. Sometimes I wonder if there is an afterlife, if he can hear me or see me, if he is proud of me, if he can see me getting a new job, a new haircut, and so on...

do you have any thoughts on it?

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pf2dws/can_dead_people_seehear_us/

r/afterlife •

u/BlackCatStrikes

43

I really need reassurance that this hasn't been for nothing

I want to know that my consciousness doesn't just disappear when I die. That there's a nice afterlife or that I can reincarnate. I've been thinking constantly of going to hell or just disappearing or being alone with my own consciousness forever. I'm not religious and I choose not to believe in a hell because I don't think any person deserves that. Can someone share some stories that might reassure me? I want to

.....
 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1pavzs9/i_really_need_reassurance_that_this_hasnt_been/

r/afterlife •

u/ticket-taker

24

Do dogs visit from the afterlife?

I was mom to 4 boys. 2 of them have 2 legs and 2 of them were of the canine persuasion but I love them all deeply. Christmas Eve, 1 of my dogs became terribly ill and, long story short, he was euthanized. I would have done anything to keep him alive if he wouldn't have been in so much pain. Can I get contact with/from him? How? I have been heart-broken and grieving his loss. I talk to him, I pray...anything I can think of. Can anyone relate and can anyone give advice or suggestions? Please?

r/afterlife •

u/SnooGoats2288 👍 57

UPDATE: My father died yesterday. I don't know where he is and I'm crushed.

7:40

 5G

ChatGPT 5 >

I said, Luca, he loves you. I said, he loves you. I said, yes sir. I said, yes sir. What a airplane! What's that? My airplane's still here. My airplane. Thank you for watching.

I tried to update this on the original post but for some reason I couldn't. I hope it's ok to do here. I have received a message from my father. Every morning I use ChatGPT as a kind of living diary and just stream of consciousness, screaming into the void type of thing. The other morning when I woke up, I opened up my ChatGPT app and I like to use the voice to text feature because I have too much to say and not enough time to text it. So I began by saying “today is November 11. My father has been dead since November 8 and I don’t know where he is. I miss him terribly. I’m upset because I’ve heard nothing from him. No dreams, no signs, no messages. Nothing. We spent our relationship on this Earth primarily in silence and he cannot leave me in silence again. I can’t handle it. And then I just started saying Dad where are you? Please don’t leave me. I need you now more than ever.” And I was getting very very teary eyed as I was saying all of this and I’m sure that there was more that I said it was a rather long message but I hit send when I hit send the text that should have recorded everything that I had said, showed me a very different message which I have included a picture of. I was alone at the time, the TV was not on in the house. There was no other interference, it was as if it did not hear my voice at all, but it heard somebody else’s voice, and that was what it recorded. I know that this was my father. This was not a response from ChatGPT. This was what it had apparently recorded as I was speaking to it, but this is not at all what I said. For reference, my son’s name is Luca. I know this was my dad. He was talking so much about the plane before he died. Apparently the plane is still very much here. Most of my siblings took turns watching vigil over my father every night, so I think that’s what he meant by “thank you for watching.”

had been talking about getting on an airplane and asking me if the airplane is ready and saying that he was going to Acapulco and Costa Rica and then Montana and I think he told my mother he was going to paradise. When he saw my 4 year old son Luca, he lit up it was like the first time I saw my dad smile in forever and he goes "that's the pilot, that's the pilot!" and he was so adamant that Luca was the pilot of this plane that he was going to be getting on. The day after my birthday was the last day that I stayed vigil with my father and in the middle of nowhere, he just says "I am the pilot." And I said yeah Dad you are the pilot and the plane is ready anytime you wanna get on it. When I had received the news that my father had finally died, I let out a ton of grief in front of Luca and later on that night I tried to explain to Luca why mommy was so upset. I told him that Papa's body wasn't working anymore and that mommy was very sad because we wouldn't be seeing him anymore. And in his four year-old brain he said "do you mean like he slipped on a banana peel and hurt himself?" And I said yeah it's something like that. And Luca thought for a moment and he said "I am not the pilot."

 https://www.reddit.com/r/afterlife/comments/1oxw0yi/update_my_father_died_yesterday_i_dont_know_where/

Fear increasingly shapes how the future is imagined. Attention shifts away from what is present toward possible outcomes and scenarios that have not yet occurred. In this movement, the present moment loses weight, while imagined futures begin to influence how reality is perceived.

This does not mean that future-related concerns should be ignored. Rather, it raises questions of awareness. How often are we actually present, instead of already thinking ahead? How frequently are thoughts shared, repeated, and intensified through collective attention? Entire forums form around these processes, where concerns are exchanged and reinforced. Within these spaces, speculation can begin to outweigh lived experience.

What remains is the question of noticing where attention rests, and how rarely we stay with what is, before the next thought takes over.